RACING SENSATION

COUP DE LYON
BREAKS DOWN

PRICE TOPPLES
TO 100/1

London, Oct. 2.
A sensation was caused in racing circles to-day by fairly reliable reports that Mr. Howard de Walden's crack Coup de Lyon
had broken down in training.
Reports state that Coup de Lyon is suffering from weakness in the loose and may never be fit enough
to race again.
Coup de Lyon was until to-day
second favourite for the Cambridgeshire Stakes, to be run shortly, and was, in fact, very strongly fancied. His betting price came down with a run to 100
to 1.
There seems to be little doubt about Coup de Lyon's lack of fitness, but there is evidently a hope in some quarters that he may be brought up to scratch in time for the race. There were takers at the odds of 100/1 to-day.—Reuter.

SAMUEL INSULL

EXTRADITION CASE
ON SATURDAY

The case for the extradition of Samuel Insull, the former Chicago utilities magnate, from Greece will begin on October 7.
Mr. Insull was the head of the gigantic $3,000,000,000 group of utility companies, and had many serious charges of fraud brought against him several months ago but fled to Greece.
Extradition proceedings against him at first fell through, but on August 26 the United States government brought new indictment charges against him. He is now being charged with violating the American bankruptcy laws.

Hundreds Killed and Wounded: Hotel National Massacre Stories

SOLDIERS OUT OF HAND

STREET FIGHTING

BULLETS FLY

Havana, Oct. 3.
The streets of Havana
flowed with blood yesterday
in the worst disturbances
since Machado was ousted.
Hundreds were killed and wounded.

There are ugly stories
of a terrible massacre of officers at the Hotel National.

The soldiers are apparently out of hands and have been engaged in street fighting all days with Communists and students.

The real carnage did not begin until after nightfall although the day had been one of terrorism, in which thirty-nine persons were known to have been killed and fifty-nine wounded.

Fighting was resumed on a terrifying scale soon after dark.
Firing was audible from almost every point of the city.

MOB ATTACKS

The shooting appears to have been initiated when soldiers fired into the air in an attempt to disperse a mob bent on looting the Hotel National, where a handful of officers are believed to be still holding out, though the main part of the building is in the hands of jubilant soldiers.

Most of the disarmed officers were taken to Fort Cabanas through jeering crowds, but it was subsequently reported that a remnant of the officers loyal to the Céspedes regime, left temporarily in the hotel, were slaughtered in cold blood.
This dreadful affair is variously attributed to "Colonel" Batista, who is alleged to have issued orders to the Communists and to students run wild.

SOLDIERS OUT OF HAND.
The soldiers are apparently out
of hand following the heavy strains of the past week and are engaged in guerilla warfare against the Communists and students. The latter are armed with hand grenades.

FORTY SOLDIERS SLAIN.

Later.
It is now stated that at least 75 have been killed, of which number forty are soldiers and ten are officers. Twenty students are among the dead.

Pedestrians in large numbers
have been struck by stray bullets
and hundreds have been wounded, overtaxing the resources of Havana's hospitals.—Reuter.

UPTURN IN TRADE

ENCOURAGING

FIGURES

London, Oct. 2.
Encouraging indications of a world recovery from the long period of economic depression
were cited by the Head of the League of Nations' Financial Section, Mr. Alexander Loveday, at Geneva to-day.

Addressing the Assembly's
Economic and Monetary Committee, he referred to the worldwide indications of economic recovery.

Industrial production and consumption were increasing while the contraction in world trade appeared to have been checked at any rate for the moment.

The monthly trade for last July
of forty-seven countries representing nine-tenths of the world's trade showed that the value of such trade, calculated on a gold currency, was greater than in the corresponding month of last year.
Exports rose by as much as ten per cent, which was the equivalent of 278 million gold dollars.

PRODUCTION RISES.

In the world as a whole, industrial production has risen by over thirty per cent.

Diminution in the figures of unemployment was also shown by the returns for July, August and September, published by the International Labour Office. The Report shows an improvement in the situation for the first time since the economic depression began and it is recorded that a substantial diminution in the number of unemployed has taken place
in many countries, particularly in Great Britain, Australia, Canada,
Ireland, Belgium, Italy, Chile, Denmark, Portugal and Roumania.—British Wireless.

TRADE AGREEMENT
WITH FINLAND

CONCESSIONS
ALL ROUND

London, Oct. 2.
The text is issued of the Anglo-
Finnish Commercial Agreement
signed at Helsinki last Friday. The agreement comes into force three days after the exchange of ratifications.

Finland imports about £19,000,000 worth of goods annually, of which at present between two and three millions are taken from Britain. Britain on the other hand buys about £10,000,000 worth of goods annually from Finland.

The present treaty runs for three years and is terminable at six months' notice. It assures to Finland for the period of the agreement, a continuance of the most-favoured-nation treatment together with an additional concession on Finland specialties,
whereby the present ten per cent.
duty on birch and plywood is consolidated and the duty on wooden sawing reels is reduced from 20 per cent. to 15 per cent.

Finland also shall reserve a suitable share of any quotas introduced to regulate entry into Britain of agricultural produce.

FRANCE'S OFFER

ECHO DE PARIS
EXAGGERATES

Paris, Oct. 3.
Reuter is authoritatively informed that France is prepared to reduce the number of her effectives and the term of military service.

This latter concession will only
be made by France, provided a similar type of service is accepted by other countries, including Germany.

It is, however, stated that there is nothing in the communication
made by M. Paul Boncour to Sir
John Simon concerning France's disarmament policy to justify the figures published in the Echo de Paris.

The Echo de Paris asserted that France had indicated willingness to reduce her effectives by 300,000
men and to reduce the term of service to eight months.—Reuter.

TROUBLE OVER

NANKING FINANCIAL PROBLEMS

Nanking, Oct. 3.
Well informed circles believe that there was a danger of a breach between Marshal Chiang Kai-shek and Mr. T. V. Soong over the disposal of the funds of the American wheat loan, which has been avoided.

The improvement in the situation is shown by the return from Shanghai of Messrs. Wang Chingwei, Tseng Chung-ming and Huang
Fu, the Chairman of the Peking
Political Committee.

Rumours of Wang Ching-wei's intended resignation have ended
with his return to the capital.
In a press statement, Mr. Wang
Ching-wei said he had reached an understanding concerning the financial problems with Mr. T. V.
Soong during their Shanghai interview.—Special.

NEW YORK FOOD SUPPLY THREATENED

SERIOUS OUTLOOK

NEW YORK, OCT. 2.

STRIKES HAVE BEEN EXTENDING SO
RAPIDLY THAT THEY ARE NOW SERIOUSLY
MENACING NEW YORK'S FOOD SUPPLIES.

The President's hope that the new coal code would permit the miners to return to work has not materialized. A complete impasse seems to exist in the coal industry as the result of the battle of the owners against the Union system.

These serious developments, coupled with scepticism
in the business world regarding the efficacy of the Government recovery measures are continuing to hamper the National Industrial Recovery Administration, which is meeting with resistance on all sides.

New York food is threatened by a strike of seventeen thousand lorry drivers.

They are demanding a five-day week at a six-day wage and their officials are boasting of the im-mobilisation of seventy-five thousand sacks of flour.

The Ford plant at Edgewater in
New Jersey has been closed down, throwing twenty-five thousand workers into idleness.

NO PROSECUTIONS.

Twelve thousand tool and die makers have joined the ranks of strikers at Detroit, Flint and Pontiac.

The Coal Code became effective
as from to-day, but there are over a hundred thousand steel and coal workers continuing the strike in Western Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana.

The Attorney-General to-day issued orders to the Federal Attorneys to refrain from prosecuting violators of the Codes.—Reuter.

INFLATION ISSUE.

President Roosevelt and the Secretary of Treasury Mr. William Woodin, are stated to be of opinion that there is sufficient wealth and idle money in most communities
of the United States to assist the closed banks in getting on their feet and resuming business without resort to inflation.

A survey by the Federal Reserve
banks and representatives of the Finance Corporation is said to have shown that persons interested in many of the closed banks thought the Government would attend to the matter sooner or later and did not firm.—Reuter.

WAR DEBTS RUMOUR

LUMP SUM OFFER

SPECULATION
IN AMERICA

Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, Economic Adviser to the British Government, is due in Washington this week to open the war debt negotiations.

Although American Treasury officials have indicated that it is unlikely that any details of the debt conversations with Sir Frederick Leith-Ross will be made public until the conversations are concluded, there are reports in Washington that Sir Frederick will propose a lump sum settlement.

This report which was put into circulation on Friday, has reached a number of Congressmen and some of them are said to favour it, provided Great Britain does not ask for too great a reduction. It is said, however, that few, if any, members of Congress will approve a settlement of ten per cent. in full settlement.

The present capital value of the debt still owing by Britain is £3,600,000,000 and despatches from London have reported that Great Britain will offer a lump sum settlement of just one-tenth.

FORM IMPORTANT.

What economists are worried about is the form in which this amount, or any other lump sum, would be tendered. It was reported that the inflationist group might support it if Great Britain would agree to pay in silver purchased in the American market.

This, however, is considered in most quarters as too visionary, especially in view of the fact that the scope of the conversations is to be widened. It was admitted by officials that the United States representatives will discuss any economic, monetary or trade question that Sir Frederick may propose although no pledges have been made that any offer except full payment will be accepted.
DOLLAR STABILIZATION.

The firm opinion that has pre-valled to the effect that stabilization of the dollar in relation to the pound would be discussed, were, in opinion of economists, confirmed when the State Department announced that the Treasury Department will conduct the debt negotiations.

Mr. Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, announced on Friday that Mr. Dean Acheson, Under-Secretary of the Treasury, and Dr.
Frederick L. Liversay, assistant economist in the State Department, will conduct the discussions on behalf of America. The meetings will, however, be in the Treasury offices instead of the State Department as heretofore.

It is pointed out that, should a lump sum be rejected, Sir Frederick and Mr. Acheson will undoubtedly discuss a revision of the semi-annual instalments. In that event, observers said, Great Britain is not likely to make any pledge regarding such instalments unless the value of the dollar could be made reasonably stable for the period of the payments.

It is believed that the first negotiations will be preliminary and that other British officials may join in later if the first talks are unsuccessful.

BUY YOUR
BEAUTY'S SAKE?

DIFFERENT people have different reasons for selecting a pen for personal use. If you want a pen that looks like an aristocrat in your pocket and on your desk, one that comes in many exquisite colors—then you want a Parker!

But, don't judge a pen by its appearance alone. Remember that you'll have to write a good many million words the rest of your life. More Parkers are sold than any other make because they write easily, smoothly, without pressure. That's important! You can write page after page without effort, uninterruptedly, as the ink flows from the gold point. Each Parker point, by the way, is tested 11 times! Have your dealer show you, today, the Parker's non-breakable and leak-proof barrel. Look at the concealed button-filler, and the clip that makes it possible to keep the pen deep and secure in your pocket. ... But buy a genuine Parker. At good stores everywhere.

Parker QUINK—Poor ink can clog the finest pen. Try Quink, the quick-drying ink that is absolutely free from sediment. Flows smoothly and freely. Permanent or washable.

MOSLEM LEADERS

DR. KHALID SHELDRAKE IN HONGKONG

Among the arrivals by the Dollar liner President Coolidge yesterday was Dr. Khalid Sheldrake, the Moslem leader of the West, who is visiting Hongkong as part of his tour to meet Moslems of all Eastern lands.

Dr. Khalid Sheldrake has great respect for the wonderful civilization of China, and has been received very kindly by the Chinese. He desires, above all, to see the unity and prosperity of China restored, and, in his capacity as a leader of seven million Moslems in the West, and of many millions in other lands, he has looked forward to greeting, for the first time, the Moslems of China.

The Buddhist priests—at Kasia, Gorakhpur, Northern India, when he visited the Sacred Shrine where Lord Buddha lies buried, presented Dr. Sheldrake with a fragment of brickwork from the original house which was built over the remains of the Buddha, and they requested him to show this to Buddhists in other lands. He has brought this to China.

Mr. Conrad Khalid Simpson who is accompanying Dr. Sheldrake, is a cousin of Her Highness, the Dayang Muda of Sarawak, who was received into the Moslem faith by Dr. Khalid Sheldrake in an aeroplane some time ago. (He also received the declaration of a certain European Prince.)

King of Mongolia?

Another interesting Moslem personality at present visiting Hongkong is Abdel Krim, the Turkish Prince whom Russia alleges Japan is endeavouring to set up as King of Mongolia.

The rumour gained some prominence in Russian newspapers but was officially denied by Japan.

Abdel Krim is visiting Hongkong in the course of a tour of the Far East.

Who Else Wants New White Skin?

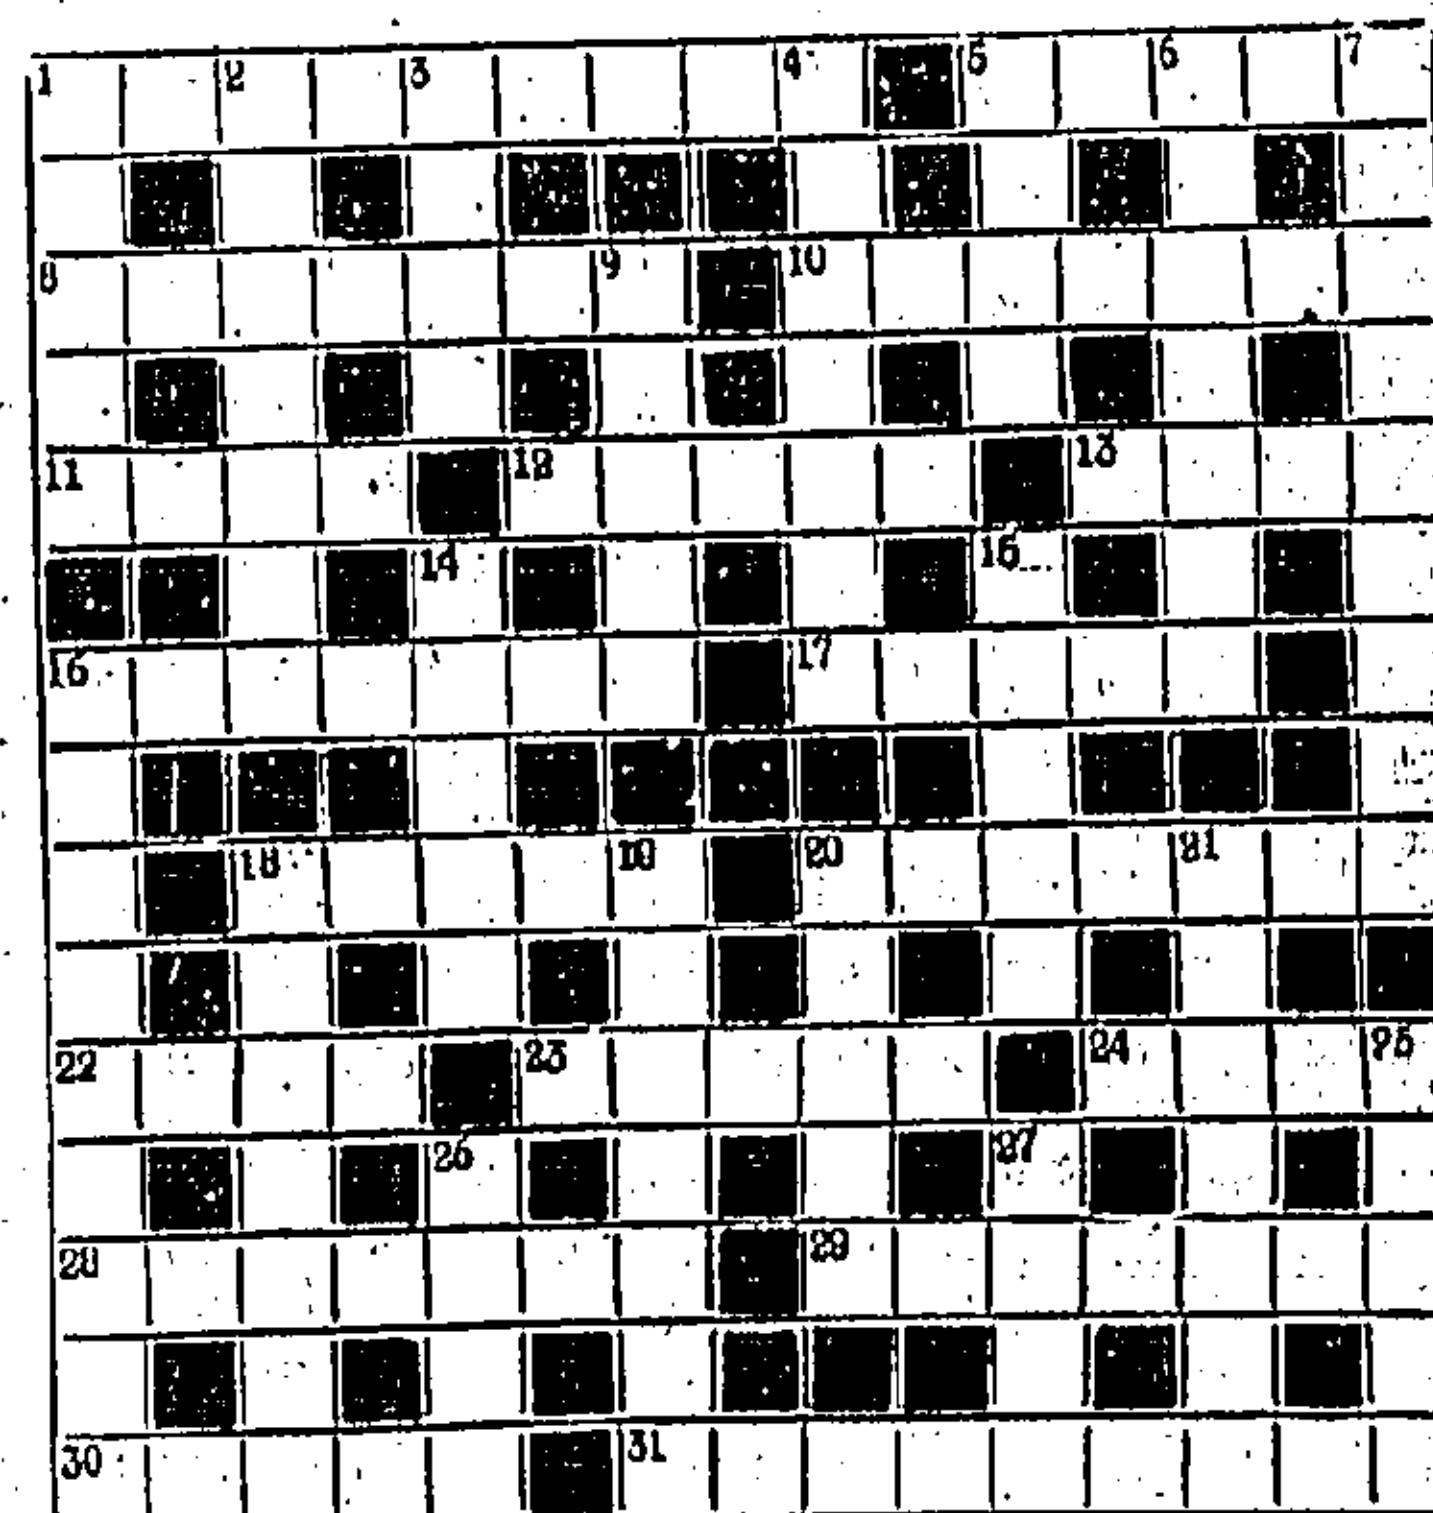

Marvellous Transformation in 3 Days

Say "Goodbye" forever to wrinkles of fatigue, ugly blackheads and enlarged pores. Any woman can now easily obtain a new and beautiful skin, simply by the daily use of the new Crème Tokalon Skinfood. White Colour. This cream contains predestined dairy cream and olive oil, combined with whitening, tonic and astringent ingredients. You can see it penetrate and whiten your skin before your very eyes as it is absorbed. It dissolves pore-deep dirt and foreign matter which soap and water do not reach. Soothes irritated skin pores. Blackheads are loosened and just drop out and fall away. It also contracts and tightens enlarged pores.

Crème Tokalon Skinfood, White Colour keeps the dried skin delicately moist, fresh and smooth. It takes the place of an oily or greasy skin. Wrinkles of fatigue vanish on application. Whitens the skin 3 shades in 3 days. Gives indescribable new skin beauty, such as can be obtained in no other way. Use it every morning. If your skin is wrinkled and aged-looking, you should also use Crème Tokalon Skinfood, Rose Colour at night. It nourishes and rejuvenates your skin while you sleep. When these two creams are used together, as directed above, successful results are guaranteed in every case or your money will be refunded.

For the LOVE of EVE by Lucy Walling

CHAPTER XXXVII

Dick wrote glowingly of his new work and life in the mountain camp. Fall had definitely arrived now. Eve could picture the brilliant crimsons, golds and russets of the mountain alders. She could almost hear the rustle of the fallen leaves as the men tramped through the woods and smell the invigorating fragrance of the evergreen.

Dick was no poet but each letter move a spell over Eve. He was a man of the outdoors and delighted in his new surroundings. Eve could picture him, throwing back his shoulders and scanning the blue September sky through the tree tops. Oh, yes, she knew he was enjoying the new job!

He had laid out the work soon after his arrival. Foundation of the buildings were already being built on both sites. Dick's office was a crude shack, hastily put together. Later it would be weather-stripped and equipped with a big coal burning stove as protection against the severe winter to come. Already the nights were cold.

With three or four of the others working on the job—the time-keeper, carpenter foreman and another engineer—Dick boarded at the home of a Mrs. Williams who lived in Pine Forest, a village four miles from their work. They drove back and forth from the village on a main highway that was excellently paved, though hilly.

Once Dick asked Eve to send him a red sweater to wear in the woods when he went hunting. The game season would soon be open and there was a lodge available for week-ends.

If Dick missed Eve he did not say so in his letters. He sent her his love always and assurance that she was the dearest wife in the world.

There were times when Eve felt that she had everything in the world a girl could want. She had an excellent job and seemed on the road to professional success. She had a fine husband and she was sure that through her stock market ventures she would soon achieve wealth. What more was to be desired?

Thus she summarized her assets and gave herself a mental pat on the back on the morning she received Dick's letter asking her to send the sweater.

Eve dropped the letter into her purse and a little later went to the men's sportswear department to buy the sweater. While she was completing the purchase a telephone call came for her. Miss Gilday, the switchboard operator, told her in a swift, low voice that the Sloan and Stanford Company had been trying to locate her.

Eve felt a premonition of disaster. Her mouth went dry and she looked about quickly. There were clerks and customers near, so she told Miss Gilday she would call from another telephone. Upstairs in the ladies' lounge there were booths and direct-line telephones. Eve went into one of these booths and put through the call.

"Atlas Coupler has been receding rapidly, Mrs. Rader," said the young man in the brokerage office. "I'm sorry but if you wish to profect your interests it will be necessary for you to deposit a substantial sum at once."

"I see!" gulped Eve. "How much will I need?"

"Why, I'd say about $400 or $500," the young man told her crisply. "It's likely that will be an adequate safeguard."

"The market never goes down more than 25 points before advancing, does it?" she asked nervously.

"It doesn't usually, but of course we can't tell for certain what will happen," he answered.

"I see. I'll bring you a cheque," Eve promised.

She felt she had no alternative, even though she might be violating a trust. Dick had deposited $500 in a joint account before leaving Lake City. He had impressed upon her the importance of having such an emergency fund.

"If anything should happen you could draw on it, Eve," he had said. "You might be taken sick and there would be no one to take care of you. I'd want you to go to a hospital and have the best of care instead of lying here alone. And hospitals cost money!"

Now Eve drew $400 from that fund. The balance she left in the bank to ease her conscience.

If she had been disappointed by the calm appearance of the brokerage office in normal times the impression was forever erased from her mind by the picture which greeted her that autumn day in 1929. Pandemonium reigned. The Sloan and Stanford clientele had lost its air of reserve. Excitement, increased as dozens elbowed each other to watch the ticker returns being chalked on the board. Telephone bells rang constantly and uniformed messenger boys dashed in and out of the offices.

Eve was not the only one who had been margining; she could see plainly. In the confused frenzy of that noon hour many persons were making out cheque to prevent their holdings from being swept away. The customary privacy granted a client was absent and no one seemed to mind. Eve parted with her $400 without ceremony. So hastily was it swept from her that she felt a physical sense of shock.

She returned to the office, utterly unable to concentrate on her work. Fortunately Barnes was away most of the afternoon and the newspapers had been supplied with corrected copy for the next day.

The stock edition showed that Atlas Coupler had closed 15 points below yesterday's final. Eve was agitated and slept very little that night.

The morning newspaper featured the activities of the stock market and Eve digested every word. She felt at a loss to know what to do—had no idea where to seek advice.

Barnes was extremely irritable that morning. Arlene, with notebook and pencil, came from his office, scowling fiercely. "The old grouch!" she said. "You'd think he'd lost a million and a quarter on the stock exchange yesterday."

"Maybe he did lose," nodded Eve. "I feel panicky myself. Not only Atlas Coupler but everything else has taken such a toboggan slide I don't know what to make of it! I couldn't stand it to lose all the money I've invested. Why—I don't know what I'd do!"

But Eve had to stand it. Later in the day she received another telephone call from Sloan and Stanford for more money to cover her holdings. She told them it was impossible for her to raise more. Then she went limp.

"Arlene," she gasped, "I'm wiped out! Completely. All my money and all I borrowed from my mother and Esther and nearly all that Dick left in our emergency fund!"

"Don't take it so hard," comforted Arlene. "I know how you feel." She was thinking of the little flyer she had taken into the financial world some months before.

There was, of course, no upward reaction at all. Eve was to come out of the stock crash of 1929 dry-eyed and white-lipped but much wiser than she had been before.

There were others, she knew, whose losses were far more serious than her own. Eve felt a great compassion for her fellow sufferers as she puzzled over the frailty of the investor's position in the nation's financial structure.

She resolved to begin repaying her mother and Esther for their loans. She could send a little money each pay day. And somehow she would have to save $400 to return to Dick's emergency fund. For weeks she was nervous after the market crash.

On the following Saturday Monn Allen asked Eve to take dinner with her. "Mrs. Ball is an excellent cook," she said, "and there is an interesting group of people at the boarding house."

Eve thought rapidly. Monn would be likely to take a refusal as an affront. And Monn, offended, was altogether too skilful at finding means of retaliation. There were many opportunities for the younger girl to cause unpleasantness if not actual harm to Eve, working together as they did.

So Eve accepted the invitation and was surprised to find that more than once in the intervening days she actually looked forward to the approaching Saturday evening. She missed Dick more than she dared admit to herself. Sometimes she thought she had made a mistake in keeping the apartment after he left and wondered if it would not be preferable to live in a boarding house. But the familiar rooms seemed to bring Dick nearer and so Eve stayed on. Often she sat in the big chair that was his favourite and sobbed herself to sleep.

Since her loss on the market Eve had been overwhelmed by a sense of failure. "There's just one thing my remaining pride hangs on," she told herself. "That's my job. I must make good at Bixby's. And making good means only one thing to me—getting the manag-ership when Barnes leaves!"

Thus it seemed imperative to keep the good will of Monn Allen. (To Be Continued.)

MR. NATHA SINGH

DEATH OF SUPREME COURT INTERPRETER

A well-known officer at the Supreme Court, Mr. Natha Singh, who has been interpreter for the past few years, passed away on Saturday morning at the Government Civil Hospital after a short illness.

Born on September 3, 1886, Mr. Natha Singh joined the Government service on November 22, 1906, and in 1915 was fifth grade clerk at the Magistracy. There was a large attendance at the funeral on Saturday afternoon. The remains were cremated.

Deceased took a keen interest in sports and was a committee member of the Indian Recreation Club.

CABARET REGULATIONS

The long promised regulations for the licensing and control of local cabarets and dancing establishments have at last made their appearance in draft form and they will be welcomed as putting the business on a proper footing. There appear to have been two reasons for the delay: a study has been made of the manner in which existing academies have been conducted since the curfew restriction; and the opportunity has been seized of overhauling the Ordinance and regulations dealing with all manner of "small-beer" licences. A survey of the proposals suggests that the time spent has been well worth while, and the authorities can be complimented upon a thorough grasp of conditions, good and bad, as they have been presented in the experimental stages through which the local form of cabaret may be said to have been passing. This insight shows itself in a number of important provisions affecting the conduct of establishments which are now to be officially admitted into the realm of legitimate business. In prescribing rules which are comprehensive enough to leave very little to chance, they do no more than take note of requirements which occasionally have made themselves felt. In the mass they seem formidable enough and to some extent leave an impression that the recreation of dancing is to be instilled with a Sunday School atmosphere, were it possible. A more careful scrutiny, however, leads to the conviction that they conform largely to the ordinary etiquette of the ballroom, though the prescriptions as to dress may verge perilously on controversial issues happily not hitherto seriously embarked upon in legal enactments. Another point which it is sought to clear up, but has been left conspicuously ambiguous by the proposed rules, concerns the register required to be kept of dancing partners of both sexes. Assuming that male dancing teachers are envisaged, and provided for in the new ruling, what application has this to the majority of the members of the other sex to be found in these halls who may in the past have exercised a different metier but who have gravitated to these public dancing resorts? We gather that objection may not be taken to their assumption of

NOTES OF THE DAYDISARMAMENT

French concessions on the disarmament issue give rise to increased optimism, although the Echo de Paris seems to have exaggerated the extent. The figures seemed astonishing on their face and prompt warning of their inaccuracy was perhaps to have been expected. The official statement, however, reveals clearly that France is prepared to travel a certain way on the path suggested and that in itself is a great deal. The future lies with Herr Hitler's response to the proposals which are being presented to him in detailed form by Baron von Neurath.

HITLER'S TASK

The world is still open to be convinced that Germany is not out, as many had begun to fear, to wreck the Disarmament Conference and to rush headlong into a fevered frenzy of re-armament. In the meantime, if the other Great Powers are inclined to suspicion, Hitler can only blame the wilder manifestations of Nazi policy, which alienated even those disposed to recognise the justice of many of Germany's demands. Hopes rest on the sincerity of the Reichstag speech. The proof of the words will lie in the deeds which follow. For Germany fully to regain her lost prestige, the spirit of the Reichstag speech must be reflected in the policy of the German delegation at Geneva. The Chancellor declared that he sees in the British plan a probable basis for disarmament, and the other Powers are prepared to take him at his word. The subsequent negotiations will soon show whether Hitler is in earnest.

FRANCE AND RUSSIA

In the meantime, eager attention is turned on France's relations with Russia and M. Edouard Herriot's recent visit to Moscow, which obviously aimed at reconstitution of the pre-war alliance. In some quarters distrust of Russia overweighs the possible diplomatic advantages of the closer rapprochement. In others M. Herriot is criticised for pursuing a personal policy. M. Herriot's pronouncements have unquestionable significance. Thus in the Museum of Revolution he said: "We have not forgotten the series of great revolutions which mark the history of France. That is why we observe with sincere and profound sympathy the efforts you are making against absolutism, and those you manifest in building a new society. I have set myself the task of strengthening in all domains the friendship between the peoples of our two great countries."

OFFICIAL STATUS

This declaration is typical and indicates the importance attached to a Franco-Russian understanding. Certainly M. Herriot possessed no official powers for the moment but it is to be remembered that he is chief of the Radical Party which holds office and will probably figure again in the next government. It is also to be remembered that he was entrusted by the present government with a mission to America. The suggestion that he was definitely acting for the Government in Russia cannot be confirmed. It is believed that he was not invested with material authority, but was rather surveying the ground. His precise status, acknowledged or unacknowledged, does not really matter. Either he will soon be master of French foreign policy or, through his party, will decisively influence it.

a new role, but the question of abuse again enters. The proposed Ordinance seeks to remedy the weakness by providing for the exclusion of persons of known notorious character, but the responsibility for giving what in the United States would be termed a break is not a light one.

SO DON'T FEAR BLOOD PRESSURE*By A MEDICAL SPECIALIST*

MEMBERS of the general public must sometimes wonder whether their diseases go in cycles. There was a time when colitis was a word heard everywhere; then appendicitis became "fashionable."

Now it is blood-pressure. The heart is a pump and it pumps against the pressure of the blood vessels of the body. These are elastic in youth; with age they tend to harden. The elasticity lessens the work of the heart; lack of elasticity adds to that work.

The pressure is measured quite simply in units and any divergence from the normal is readily revealed.

SOME MISCONCEPTIONS.

What, then, does it mean when a physician tells a patient that he has "high blood-pressure"?

Merely this—that his heart has more work to perform than in a normal individual.

I have had patients who seemed to think that a rising blood-pressure was, by analogy, like a rising steam-boiler temperature; that at a certain point something would burst.

This is entirely wrong. The heart is a pump, as I have said. High blood-pressure involves for it more work; that is all.

I have known people with high blood-pressure who became obsessed with the idea that their overburdened hearts would become diseased. Here, again, there is no scientific ground for such a view.

As the late Sir Clifford Allbutt said of such cases: "These hearts are nearly always strong and faithful to the end."

Why, if this be so, do medical men to-day seem to stress so much this condition?

The answer is simple.

NOT IRREMEDIAL.

I have before me medical histories going back over twenty years. Let me take one. The patient, a lady, came to me in 1909. She was then 63 years of age. She had a very high blood-pressure. She is still alive and in her 88th year.

High blood-pressure, unlinked with any other serious condition, is a matter that can be treated successfully in most cases, if not in all.

What the physician does in such cases is to indicate the habit of life attendant on the condition and the appropriate alleviation.

For instance, a patient with high blood-pressure who otherwise appears to enjoy good health and to be free of organic defects is told to eat sparingly, to drink sparingly, to avoid excitement.

This was the invariable advice of Sir William Osler, one of the greatest of modern teachers and healers. My own experience has taught me its supreme value.

Although high blood-pressure is often the result of changes in the arterial system, it is not always so.

High blood-pressure may exist in a patient who has no appreciable change in the blood system, no organic disease or other defect. It may be, in fact, the result of what we term "tone."

"Tone" might be described as the habit of body. For example, an individual may be somewhat "over-toned;" life in him is exuberant. The pressure, however, falls upon his arterial system and throws added work upon the heart.

If one cured such people of their high blood-pressure they would not feel nearly so well. They are better off as they are.

Looking back over a long professional career, my case book supplies me with many instances of patients with records of high blood-pressure who died, full of years, of some ailment associated with old age.

AVOID WORRYING.

Now the advance of medical knowledge reveals, year by year, the vast influence of the mind upon the body.

People who find that they have high blood-pressure very often begin to call in the aid of their misguided minds to make things worse. They begin by worrying; they end with "high blood-pressure phobia."

I have found that the chief source of anxiety is the dread of a "stroke." Let me stress this other truth: high blood-pressure unassociated with other serious organic disease is not likely to produce a "stroke."

To fear such a consequence is to submit to years of mental torture that will produce only one certain result: a lowering of the general vitality and tone, a lessening of the normal enjoyment of life.

CULTIVATE TRANQUILITY.

States of worry, anxiety, and a morbid preoccupation with a physical condition are the chief factors in raising pressure.

The individual who has been told that he has high blood-pressure should not on that account be unduly alarmed.

In the first place, he should follow his doctor's advice about diet, exercise, and rest. After that, he should see what the psychologists can tell him. Their counsel (at one with the physician) is very simple.

In a word, it will be: Fear not. Cultivate a tranquil habit of mind. Do not worry.

Exercise; keep down excessive fat; never cheat yourself of the hours of sleep.

Do these things and, all other things being equal, even with high blood-pressure you may hope, quite reasonably, to emulate my blood-pressure patient whose 88th birthday falls before this year is out.

The Very Idea!REMOVAL TIME

By Ed. Kelly, Well Removed

UNTIL yesterday we were always under the impression that the people in the flat across the street had a very nice home, with inlaid mahogany and Persian rugs, Jacobean oak and glittering glass, down cushions and choice water-colours.

But that was before they leased their new flat at Kowloon Tong, and got into the clutches of the removal men.

These miseries turned up with six bamboo poles, and decanted several old sacks all over the road.

They then went carefully through the house and selected the most dilapidated pieces of furniture they could find, and arranged them on the pavement as an exhibition.

There was an old carpet with a hole burnt in the middle, and a painted stand with a broken leg. Somewhere they dug up an old zinc bath which they filled with rusty saucers.

Finally one of them, uttering hei-yahs of triumph, came out with a packing case, having a chin cover, which had been used to store boots and shoes.

After this they carried out the best items wrapped up in sackings, so that nobody could see them, unless they happened to be shabby, or broken, in which case they gave them a few bumps on the pavement.

Every window in the street which commanded a view was occupied by a neighbour who was making up her mind to tell her husband that night what a lot of rubbish those stuck up So-and-So's had collected.

We don't know why removal men do this kind of thing unless it is because most of them also sell furniture, and they want to shame you into buying some new pieces from them.

A JOB FOR SOMEBODY

Every few years or so somebody—usually in Vienna—claims to have invented an elastic glass, but up till now we haven't seen any on the market, which is a pity.

Apart from the obvious advantages of a windshield which would bounce you back into your seat if you "stepped" too hard on the brakes, it would have many other uses. We have sometimes tried to wash a tumbler, and if we don't burst the thing by putting our great fist into it, we drop it, with the same result. But you could turn an elastic glass inside out like a bag.

There are certain people who hesitate to look into a mirror, in case of accidents, but a resilient glass would stand up to anything, and then come back for more punishment.

Further, we are always sorry for the bluebottle which fancies a window is not there because he can't see it. He must get a fearful headache at times. So does the goldfish which tried to swim across the room to get away from a nagging wife. And think how wonderful it would be to get a quart into a pint flask, providing you could get it out again.

MODERN VERSION

Hei-diddle-diddle, a cat and a fiddle.
Hold forth in opposition.
And the neighbours averred that what they'd heard,
Was a cabaret band exhibition.

If there's one thing that annoys us it's a nagging woman.

Nagging women were invented long before sheep, despite what scientists tell us about being descended from animals. We have descended so low, in fact, that if we were any lower we wouldn't be high enough to live in Kowloon.

In fact the earliest man and woman used to meet under a Stone, which was why it was called a stone age. They used to be called Amosins, but it is not chronicled what they called each other.

It was not until they began to walk on their legs that they first discovered about Love. This was known as the Dark Age, which accounts for the fact that all petting, even to the present day, is done with the lights turned low.

Children were not discovered until the following year, and by then it was too late.

Nevertheless, Love still gallops on.

"Let's act like we know something about gears and cylinders so he won't sell us a lemon."

DEFEATED AGAIN

SHAI BOWLERS AT TAIKOO

UPSET BY THE CONDITIONS

Making his first appearance of the tour as skip of the Shanghai Interport bowls team, T. G. Main yesterday experienced the mortification of defeat.

Taikoo were responsible in administering this, the visitors' second defeat since arrival last week, the issue being settled on the 18th and 20th heads where Taikoo registered fours.

Shanghai turned out what might reasonably be considered their strongest combination, with Bailey, who has by far displayed the most consistent form to date, supporting three old interporters in, Malcolm, Richards and Main.

But on a rain sodden green, which called for strength, and more strength, Shanghai were never happy. Only Bailey drew with any sustained degree of accuracy, and even he could not prevent the disasters which overcame the quartette after the 15th head.

SOUVENIR SPOONS.

After the match the players gathered in the clubhouse where Mr. R. Keown, President of the Taikoo R.C., presented the Shanghai team with souvenir spoons. In commenting on the game Mr. Keown praised the Shanghai team for their sporting gesture in agreeing to play under such unfavourable conditions.

Mr. Main congratulated Taikoo on their victory and presented each of the players with a Shanghai spoon.

TO-DAY'S MATCH

Will Possibly Be Cancelled

Unless the weather clears up it is doubtful whether the Civil Service green will be in a fit condition for the bowls match between Victoria and Shanghai this afternoon.

The match has been arranged to start at 3 o'clock, but the immediate outlook is not hopeful. If play is possible the following players will be on view.

AID TO BRITISH PRODUCTS

which represents a reduction of ten per cent. is guaranteed to Finland.

HOW FINLAND BENEFITS.

On the other side of the agreement Finland has conceded extensive reductions in customs duties to a long schedule of British products notably woollens, jute, linen, tin plates, galvanised sheets, small automobiles, tyres, whiskey, gin, gramophones and records.

Among other goods accorded similar benefits are salted herrings, the duty on which for the first year has been reduced from two marks to half mark per kilo for a fixed quantity. After the first year the duty will be raised to one mark per kilo and the quantity of herrings taken increased.

Fixation of the existing duty has been agreed to regarding various goods, including certain colonial products such as bananas and tea and freedom of duty guaranteed in the case of coal and coke.

BIGGER COAL SUPPLY.

Regarding coal, Britain nine years ago provided 95 per cent. of coal for the Finnish market, but the figure dropped as low as 29 per cent. in 1931.

Finland now agrees to take not less than 75 per cent. of her coal from Britain, which should amount to increase of 175,000 tons on last year's figures and 700,000 over that of 1931.

Regarding coke, a British trade delegation is going to Finland shortly for a discussion on coke imports. A purchase agreement, similar to that negotiated in the recent treaty with Denmark, has also been included affecting inter alia, wheat, flour, crescents, jute and salt, and arrangements also have been started to increase the amount bought of British iron, steel, motor cars and commercial vehicles.—British Wireless.

SHERIFF'S FATE FEARED

Chesterton, Ind., Sept. 28.

There is a growing apprehension that the sheriff, Mr. Charles Neel, has been put to death by the four escaped convicts, who shot their way to freedom and carried him off after wrecking his car.

Ten convicts altogether escaped from the Indiana State Prison on September 25 but they split into two gangs. A big force of police and citizens has been scouring the woods for them. They are reported to have been seen in several places but without their prisoner and the search is now concentrated on the sheriff rather than on the convicts.—Reuter.

BOSTON BANDITS' BIG HAUL

REGISTERED MAIL CARRIED OFF

Boston, Sept. 28.

Four bandits brought off a daring raid to-day and made off with three sacks of registered mail containing money and valuables, estimated by postal officials to be worth more than $100,000.

The thieves concealed themselves in telephone booths near the receiving room of the postal station, made a sudden rush and seized the sacks from trucks as they were about to be removed to be placed on board trains. They then leapt into an automobile and fled with their booty.

AMERICAN NAVAL MANOEUVRES

EFFORTS TO REDUCE FLEETS' STRIKING POWER

San Pedro, Oct. 2.

Big American naval manoeuvres will take place this week under the command of Admiral David S. Slaters. The conditions will be as strikingly close to those of actual warfare as possible. They will take the form of an overseas expedition by the fleet and efforts by an enemy to reduce the striking power of the fleet.

About 120 surface ships and 250 aircraft will take part.—Reuter.

TOMBS OF MANY CENTURIES AGO

DISCOVERIES AT NANCHANG

Three tombs have been excavated during the levelling of the ground for the new aerodrome at Nanchang.

The first, of the Ming dynasty (about 300 years old), gave the diggers a great fright, as, when they opened the coffin, the body and face of the woman it contained were perfectly preserved and she looked alive. The air, however, quickly blackened the body and it became dust, as did her costume at the slightest touch. The corpse was clothed in a peculiar but beautifully embroidered costume, which experts declare was that of a Taoist of that dynasty.

Another tomb yielded about 50 valuable relics. They included a string of Buddhist pearl beads, a pair of large dragon and tiger vases about 2 ft. high and of beautiful porcelain, many jade hairpins, wine jars, numbers of old coins, bronze mirrors, cauldrons, dragon winejars, and sacrificial utensils. Experts declare that they belong to the Tang dynasty. The relics are considered by local historians and geologists to be of immense value. They are now being preserved in the Government Office.

Valuable relics about 1,000 years old, found in another tomb, included a bronze incense-burner, a pair of flower vases of ancient pottery, number of earthen pots and winejars, and most valuable of all, a jade bracelet "which shines with radiance in the darkness and in which can be seen blood red lines in the form of dragons." According to a local jeweller, this bracelet is worth from $20,000 to $50,000.—Reuter.

DEMONSTRATION IN THEATRE

ABUSE HURLED AT HITLER

London, Sept. 29.

An anti-German demonstration, lasting for several hours, took place last evening at the first night of Gerhart Hauptmann's drama "Before Sunset," in which one of the most outstanding German actors, Werner Krauss, played the leading part. The demonstrators were evidently well prepared and, shortly after the curtain had risen, a flood of handbills containing abusive statements against Werner Krauss and Chancellor Adolf Hitler was poured from the galleries on to the heads of the people in the stalls below.

The curtain had to be lowered whereupon a fight broke out between the disturbers of peace in the galleries and those who indignantly protested that they had paid to see the play. Meanwhile, the police were called in and they removed the demonstrators, after which the play continued.

HARROWING SCENES IN TAMPICO

SURVIVORS FACING SHORTAGE OF FOOD AND WATER

Scenes of death and desolation met the pilots who flew over Tampico. One hundred and twenty-five bodies have been recovered, while thousands of survivors are being treated in the hospitals.

Survivors will have to face a shortage in food and drinking water. In order to avoid pestilence, everyone is being vaccinated. The military parade the streets all night long and no one is allowed in the streets after seven o'clock.

STAMPING OUT "BODY-LINE"

jected to much head-high bowling, the Notts captain had a terrible taste of his own medicine with the result that a gentleman's agreement was arrived at by the captains that neither side would adopt these methods in the remainder of their match.

I witnessed a Test Match between England and the West Indies when both teams employed the fast short bumping leg-theory bowling. The batsmen of both teams were battered and bruised. They openly admitted that they would be glad when a stop was put to such methods.

A DELICATE POSITION.

It must be realised that the M.C.C. Committee are in a delicate and difficult position. Supposing the report of the county captains shows a majority vote against this fast bowling leg-theory, and the county committees state that they have not witnessed very much of it. Will the M.C.C. side with the committees against the opinion of the captains? The latter have been in much closer touch with the game, their players, and cricket generally. Of one thing I am certain. The M.C.C. should pay the greatest attention to the wishes of the captains, in whose hands the future of our game lies.

Another problem arises. Supposing next season two counties are playing, and one captain will not agree that fast leg-theory bowling is against the spirit of the game, and employs it. And suppose the other captain is totally averse to it and asks his rival skipper to refrain from such methods. A deadlock arises. What is the position then?

IN THE TRUE SPIRIT.

I think that, to avoid problems like this arising the M.C.C. Committee, after receiving the reports of the committees and captains, will issue a statement to the following effect:

"We, the M.C.C., have had the opinions of both committees and captains of our county clubs on the subject of fast, short, bumping leg-theory bowling.

"It is difficult to legislate on this matter and we appeal to the captains of our county teams to discontinue in the future any form of attack which is intimidating to the batsman and which, in consequence only engenders bad feeling between the players.

"We hope that the true spirit of cricket will be kept up in accordance with the best traditions of our national game."

In conclusion captains of county teams, it is up to you.

HADLEY SATISFIES THE CURIOUS

Breaks Local Swimming Record

ROZA PEREIRA AGAIN

BEATS SHANGHAI STAR IN 440

START OF UNOFFICIAL INTERPORT

V.R.C. Hold A Slight Advantage

Ever since Frank Hadley started Shanghai with his amazing performances in the water over short distances in the early part of the summer, Hongkong has been curious to see this human destroyer in action.

This curiosity was satisfied last night when, following his recent triumphs in Kobe, he appeared in the V.R.C. bath for the Shanghai Foreign Y.M.C.A., in the first part of an unofficial Interport against the Victoria Recreation Club.

He realised all expectations, setting a new record for the 50 yards, giving Roza-Pereira a magnificent race in the 400 almost immediately afterwards and helping the Y.M.C.A. to win the medley relay race.

The V.R.C. finished the evening four points ahead, having gained first place in three of the six events.

Bearing in mind that the visitors arrived only a few hours before and were pitched forthwith into a salt water bath after being used to fresh water conditions, the Shanghai swimmers gave an extraordinarily good account of themselves and broke even for the honours of the evening.

ED. BEATEN.

In addition to Hadley's record breaking 50 yards effort, R. R. Duell came along with a display of diving which set an entirely new standard for this Colony. Ed. de Roza, hitherto unchallenged champion was decisively beaten for first place.

Lionel Roza-Pereira benefited by

the opposition of Frank Hadley in the 440 yards, winning in the time of 5 minutes 46 4/5 seconds, which was 1 3/5 seconds better than his clocking in the recent V.R.C. championships.

This event was among the best of the evening. Hadley was a game loser, but he could not challenge Roza's burst of speed over the last 40 yards. Gittins also swam well and aided the V.R.C. points aggregate by snatching third place from Logan.

The teams scored the following points.

COUNTY CAPTAINS TO AID

A. E. R. Gilligan, former Sussex county and England Test captain, writing in the News-Chronicle, further discusses Body-Line Bowling and suggests that the M.C.C. appeals to county captains to stamp out this type of bowling.

He writes: When county cricket began in May, the M.C.C. had just replied to the Australian cable saying that at the end of the season they would receive reports from the county captains and the county committees on the vexed subject of what the Australians call "body-line" bowling.

In a short time these reports will be handed in, and the cricket world is eagerly awaiting an announcement by the M.C.C. Committee.

MORE ACCIDENTS THAN EVER.

Has there been during the past season any head-high bowling set to a leg field, and what has been the effect on the county players?

Let me state straightaway that there have been more accidents this season than ever before, and no fewer than five batsmen have been sent to hospital for three weeks or more through being hit on the head and body by these short fast-bumping deliveries.

Some will say that the hard wickets are responsible for this; others will assert that it is the batsman's fault, chiefly owing to the pronounced two-eyed stance and covering up of their wickets. Many more will give their verdict that the bowler is in no way to blame.

But I regret to say—and I have been in constant touch with the players themselves—that in some cases it has looked very much as if fast bowlers were not unwilling to intimidate batsmen.

A "GENTLEMAN'S AGREEMENT." The remedy for this state of affairs lies wholly in the captains' hands.

Did we not see a match played this summer between Leicestershire and Nottingham, when, after the Leicestershire batsmen had been sub-

LORD HAILSHAM'S OPINION

Let's Drop It For Good Of Game

Eastbourne, Sept. 29. A reference to bodyline bowling was made by Lord Hailsham, President of the M.C.C., in a speech here to-day.

He said that in sport as in other spheres there were always trouble makers. The suggestion that any member of the English team would bowl purposely to injure batsmen was absurd. If, however, such tactics, though carried out in a true sporting sense, was likely seriously to jeopardize the relationship between England and Australia, it would be better if it were dropped.

It is understood that a special committee at the M.C.C. meeting on October 9 will discuss bodyline bowling and draft a cable reply to the Australian Board of Control.

The opinions of county captains on the subject, it is stated, all favour the prohibition of bodyline bowling.

POINT CLEARED UP.

MISS SHOESMITH AND Y.M.C.A. GALA.

As there appeared to be some doubt as to whether or not Miss Joan Shoesmith won the 50 yards race in which she competed at the Y.M.C.A. Gala on Saturday, it has been explained that the judges ruled that although Miss Shoesmith finished first, she was not allowed to stand as winner as being under age, she is not a member of the Y.M.C.A.

SHANGHAI SOCCER

MORE INTEREST THAN EVER

50 TEAMS TAKING PART

FIFTH DIVISION FORMED

So much has soccer increased in popularity among Shanghai football enthusiasts that the Shanghai Football Association has announced that it has been made necessary this year to have five divisions of ten teams each.

The Association has decided that owing to the shortage of grounds teams in the first division only will play off two matches, while junior teams will meet but once.

The fifth division includes a number of new teams, and these will have to play off their engagements on Sunday mornings, as they cannot otherwise be accommodated.

SOKOLS PROMOTED.

In the senior league, the Sokol side has been promoted from the second division, but apart from this, the division remains as it was last season.

As indicated by the number of new candidates, the Association expects to have a record season, and it is reported that many teams are already busy getting fit for their initial games.

The league has been scheduled to start on October 14.

Following are the entries with the divisions allotted to them:

1st Division—A. S. F. British Navy, Chinan, S.F.C., S.M.P., Sokol, S.R.C., 3 Cultures, Tung Wah, Worcesters.

2nd Division—Erin Villa, Italian Navy, Jewish, Lusitano, S.F.C., S.M.P., S.R.C., St. Johns, Telephones, Worcesters.

3rd Division—A.S.F. Area Details, British Navy, Chin Hwa, Lin Nan, Public School, R.A.M.C., R.A.S.C., S.F.X., 3 Cultures.

4th Division—Area Details, Aurora, Fire Brigade, Lusitano, Nish Chih-wei, S.F.X., Sokol, Tung Kwang.

5th Division—Arendians, Bramoco, Chinese Police, J.A.C., Jewish, R.M.I.C., Russian Regt., Specials, Telephones, Tung Wen.

TOTALISATOR IN FOOTBALL

An Office Opened in Belgrade

A Totalisator has been introduced into Jug-Slavian football. An office has been opened in the centre of Belgrade and people can bet there. Apart from that, bookmakers are acting on the grounds during the various football matches. Opponents of the Tote in football have entered a protest.

The Spanish Football Association have given their official permit for every club team to engage two foreign players. This is a movement by which the authorities expect to strengthen Spanish Soccer.

A Reuter's telegram states that Emilin, the crack centre-forward of the Aronius F.C. Bilbao, has transferred his services to the Madrid F.C. for £450 down and a monthly salary of £28.

ANOTHER LINDRUM RECORD

Snooker Break of 113

Bulawayo, Sept. 11. Walter Lindrum, the famous Australian billiards player, who is touring South Africa, put up a new South African snooker record here while playing in an exhibition match with a break of 113, which is also a new personal record for himself.

Playing with Clark McConachy, the New Zealander, who is making the tour with him, Lindrum made eight on his first visit to the table. McConachy replied with a five, and Lindrum then potted all the remaining balls on the table, to beat his opponent by 121 points to 5.

Lindrum recently put up a new world's billiards record in South Africa by scoring a thousand in twenty-eight minutes.

SOVIET'S LITTLE TROUBLES

PREMIER BUYS SOAP AND PROSECUTES

Daniel Sulimov, Premier of the All-Russian Soviet Republic (the principal member State of the Soviet Union) recently took his place incognito in a long queue which had formed outside a shop where a sale of soap, under the alluring announcement "For all citizens" was in progress. After waiting a long time in the queue he discovered that the soap was of appalling quality, emitting a poisonous odour. The price of a measure of the soap was a rouble and ninety kopeks, and the clerk indifferently waved back Sulimov's proffered two roubles with the rejoinder "We have no change". Having surmounted this hurdle by telling the clerk to keep the change, Sulimov was given the soap in unwrapped form, and only succeeded in getting a small bit of paper by threatening to call the manager.

The Premier felt that the organisation responsible for placing such bad soap on sale should be held up to reprobation and started on a tour of personal investigation. When he finally located the organisation, after being sent from one incorrect address to another, he was told that the director was absent, that his assistant was ill, and that nothing could be done for him. At this point Sulimov announced his identity, whereupon there was a striking change of attitude; a frightened official was produced and assured the Premier that this organisation also was not responsible for the quality of the soap.

After cutting his way through several more layers of bureaucratic red-tape the Premier finally obtained the satisfaction of finding the presumptive actual culprits and having proceedings instituted against them on the basis of a Soviet law, considerably more honoured in the breach than in the observance, which makes it a criminal offence to turn out goods of outrageously bad quality.

The narrative of Sulimov's crusade for better soap was published, perhaps with a view to encouraging other Soviet citizens to protest more energetically when a long period of waiting in a queue is rewarded by some conspicuously bad product. However, the endurance of the ordinary buyer, lacking Sulimov's prestige, would probably give out long before he could find out who was really responsible for the poor product or even obtain a hearing for his grievances.

KEROSENE SHORTAGES.

While queues for manufactured goods have shown a tendency to abate in recent months, great crowds of people are always to be found where bread is being sold at "commercial prices" (which are very high) over and above the regular rationed allotments, which holders of food cards are entitled to buy at moderate prices. And more recently there has been a breakdown in the supply of kerosene, which is an especially serious matter because most families in Moscow rely on the primus stove for such domestic cooking as they may undertake.

BEGIN THE DAY RADIANTLY!

You Will, If You Take Sufficient Care of Your Blood and Nerves.

How much do so many people miss at this time of the year because, instead of rising vigorous and eager to enjoy the glorious early morning hours, they lie over-late, too languid and spiritless to leave their bed!

If this is your case, what is its reason? The answer almost surely is, the unsatisfactory condition of your blood. The prolonged spell of summer heat through which you have lately passed, has impoverished your blood stream, thus reducing your digestive powers, debilitating your nerves and causing enfeeblement of your whole system.

To remedy matters, there is only way....by replacing in your blood that which it has lost, restoring to it richness and strength, so that it in turn may revitalise enfeebled organs, rebuild debilitated nerves, revive lost appetite and spirits.

This can only be done by means of a reliable blood and nerve tonic, of which there is none surpassing Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. For over half-a-century Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been renowned throughout the world for their remarkable restorative powers. By rapidly revitalising the blood and creating new, rich, red blood at every dose, these Pills build up the nerves, restore appetite, invigorate the whole system. They are equally good for men as well as women.

Start taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills now and see how soon they will give you fresh energy, cheerfulness, joy in the mere fact of living.

RAINFALL FIGURES.

FOURTEEN DRY DAYS DURING SEPTEMBER

The total rainfall for September, as recorded at the Botanic Gardens, was 14.65 inches. The heaviest fall was 6.85 inches on September 11. No rain fell in fourteen days while less than half an inch fell on eleven days during the month.

The highest maximum temperature for the month was 92 degrees on September 28 compared with 88 degrees in the same month last year. The lowest minimum reading 76 degrees was taken on September 12 and 20. On three days in September last year similar temperatures were recorded.

Queues have been forming shortly after midnight in front of kerosene shops on the uncertain prospect that some of the precious fluid will be on sale when the shops open at eight in the morning. In fact, a double gamble is involved in taking a place in a kerosene queue: first, on the shop possessing kerosene at all, and, secondly, on the supply lasting until one's turn in the queue has been reached. Among several causes for the sudden shortage of kerosene in the capital (for a long time it has been obtained with great difficulty, if at all, in neighbouring villages) perhaps the most immediate is the demand for motor fuel for the tractors and other motorised implements operating on the harvest fields.—Manchester Guardian.

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

Lyn Robert is a girl for whom all things come true.

Privation; childhood joys in the snows of her native Poland; travelling with her parents in a little middle European circus; her first view of the blazing blue of the Mediterranean; the clowns and the grease paint and the strange human and animal smells of their wagon caravan as it travelled through France and Germany; loneliness and longing for girls of her own age as playmates; sailing the fabled Indian Ocean and the China Sea; stranded and broke in Sumatra, where bountiful Mother Nature provides everything but money; the success and plenty that followed her debut as a singer in a Shanghai cafe; the hard, white sun of California; in vaudeville in New York and in a show with Lou Holtz; a beginning in pictures, the grinding camera, blinking lights of her first picture at Paramount and then a more important part in another one.

And now, she is comedienne with Eddie Cantor in his big new comedy,
"The Kid from Spain", at the King's Theatre to-day. All things come true; a full life is already here at an age which to most girls is just a preface to life.

Eddie Cantor, who never met or saw Lyn until the moment she was brought on "The Kid from Spain" set to be introduced to him, thinks she's one of the coming stars of musical comedy, stage and screen both.

"She has fire. She has a natural rhythm for song. She's a mimic and a clown, a genius at both. I like the way she plays a scene and the way she tells a story. She has all the musical comedy spirit", Eddie tells you.

Miss Robert is scheduled for the new Gershwin show on Broadway this autumn which will boast of the Astors and Jack Buchanan in its cast.

"Rasputin and the Empress"

Unprecedented spectacle, a dramatic plot which reflects world history, and the most notable theatrical family in the world, lend glamour to "Rasputin and the Empress," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's superfilm, telling the story of the fall of the Roman-offs, and bringing together for the first time on the screen, John, Ethel and Lionel Barrymore.

Filed from an original story by Charles MacArthur, famous for "The Front Page," "Lulu Belle," "The Sin of Madelon Claude," and other hits with which his name has been coupled, the huge production was directed by Richard Boleslavsky, war hero, author, director in the Moscow Art Theatre and producer of such stage spectacles as "The Miracle" and "The Vagabond King."

"Rasputin, the Mad Monk," is played by Lionel Barrymore, the ill-fated Czarina by Ethel, and Prince Chegodieff by John in the new production which comes on Thursday to the Queen's Theatre. The Czar is played by Ralph Morgan, last seen in "Strange Interlude." Diana Wynyard, London stage star, makes her American talkie debut in the part of the Princess Natasha, whose romantic affair with John Barrymore runs as an under-current throughout the entire picture. Tad Alexander is seen as the invalid Czarevitch, and prominent roles are filled by C. Henry Gordon and Edward Arnold.

The story tells of the strange monk,
Rasputin, who by curing the little Russian Czarvitch of a deadly ailment, makes the superstitious Czar and Czarina his slaves, rule Russia through them, precipitates a riot of cruel, meddles with politics and finally plunges Russia into the world War.

Then, after his death, comes the revolution that seals the doom of the Romanoff dynasty. Authentic make-up literally reincarnates the original actors in the strange drama, and huge settings—absolutely true to the originals, add further realism.

"The Good Companions"

"The Good Companions," J. B.
Priestley's brilliant novel, is now in its 30th edition and still, according to the publishers, selling in large numbers. When this work was adapted for the stage it proved to be an instantaneous success, and ran in London for over a year in two West End theatres. It was during this period that the Gaumont-British Picture Corporation bought the film rights.
Determined to maintain the high level set by the novel and play they engaged what can only be described as the finest cast that has appeared in an English film. Thus all the dearly loved characters of the story (now household names) have been vividly brought to life with a realism that will delight the countless lovers of the book. Such stars as Jessie Matthews, Edmund Gwenn, John

Gielgud, Mary Glynn and A. W.
Baikie have leading roles, and they are supported by a long list of artists—all perfectly suited for the parts they portray. The scintillating narrative has been faithfully and happily adhered to, and no experience whatsoever has been spared on the lavish and numerous settings.

The completed film has turned out to be a spectacular success. When it commenced its pre-release in London it received unanimous praise from the whole of the Press. On the opening day of its run, Their Majesties the King and Queen attended a gala performance in aid of the funds of the Personal Service League.

"The Good Companions" is a production of which England is justly proud. To quote a well known film critic, the picture affords "an hour and a half of pure pleasure."
"The Good Companions" will be shown at the King's Theatre on Friday.

CHARGES WITHDRAWN.

ALLEGED THEFTS SUBJECT FOR CIVIL ACTION

Charges concerning the alleged theft of $1,007.80 between January, and April, 1930, and $250, on January 8, 1932, brought against Pang Yuen, a former partner of the Wah Cheong Poultry stall, Central Market, were withdrawn before Mr. Bullfour at the Central Police Court yesterday afternoon.

For the prosecution, Mr. F. X. D'Almeida said: I find in this case the subject of the charges is more for civil action than for criminal proceedings. With your Worship's permission I wish to withdraw on both charges.

Mr. Hin-shing Lo (for the defence) I fully agree with my

REVIEWS DECISIONS ON VITAL AFFAIRS

Nanking, Oct. 2.

A general atmosphere of optimism prevails, following the arrival here this morning of Wang Ching-wei and Huang-fu, and Huang-fu's departure for Peking.

Wang Ching-wei, proceeded to the Central Kuomintang Headquarters, where he addressed the weekly Memorial meeting.

Wang Ching-wei stated, briefly, that in accordance with the Central Executive Council meeting decision the Fifth National Kuomintang Congress will be postponed until next year and the National People's Assembly is scheduled to be held in March, 1935.

Secondly, concerning Mongolia's self autonomy, Wang Ching-wei declared that Dr. Sun Yat-sen always supported Mongolian autonomy. Viewing with doubt the real intentions of the recent Mongolian Princes' autonomy movement, the Government was establishing a Special Commission to study the question.

Thirdly, Pang Chen-wu's and Chi Tung-chang's military strength was negligible. Therefore, this problem was expected to be settled without much difficulty. Fourthly, the Members of the Standing Committee of the National Economic Commission, Messrs. T. V. Soong, Sun-fu and Wang Ching-wei are formally resuming office this week.—Reuter.

TRUNK MURDER

TRIAL MAY BE DELAYED THREE MONTHS

Macao, Oct. 2.

The trial of Patricio Remedios, charged with the murder of the girl Choy Ling whose body was found in a trunk shipped to Japan from Shanghai, may not come before the Supreme Court for another three months.

This opinion was expressed today by Mr. F. X. Silva, solicitor for the accused. Mr. Silva said that before the case could commence, the depositions of witnesses in the Portuguese Consular Court at Shanghai must be submitted to Macao.

It is now known that the charge of wilful murder against Patricio Remedios is based on particulars furnished from Shanghai.

When shown a photograph of Choy Ling, accused in alleged to have killed and declared he was extremely sorry for the murder.

Jose Eulalia Remedios has been released, following Judge Raposa's refusal to charge him. When interviewed, he expressed his thanks to God for his freedom.

He deeply appreciated the unqualified courtesy and kindness the people of Macao, and especially his lawyer, had shown to him when he was ill. His only hope now is that his brother will be freed, or, at least, that his sentence will be a light one.—Our Own Correspondent.

PLANTERS' PROBLEM.

MALAYA WAITING FOR DUTCH DECISION

Singapore, Oct. 2.

The Malayan Rubber Administration is still determined not to initiate any proposals for the restriction of production, declared Sir Cecil Clementi, Governor of the Straits Settlements, in his speech to the Legislative Assembly today.

As the chief difficulties in the industry are to be found in the Dutch East Indies, he said, any action on the part of Malayan planters would be premature.

When the Dutch find a practical solution, fair to both natives and estate owners, and guarantee to make it effective in Dutch territory, Malaya will then examine it with sympathy and every desire to co-operate, he went on; but French and Belgian adherence to the scheme was an absolute necessity and an essential condition, he said.—Reuter.

Effect on Market.

London, Oct. 2.

There was a fresh demand for rubber shares this morning, based on the continued hopes for a restriction agreement, and the commodity price also showed the influence of optimistic trading, rising five thirty-seconds.

Later, profit-taking caused an easing of share prices and commodity prices weakened following Sir Cecil Clementi's statement as to the British policy in Malaya.—Reuter.

THE WATER SUPPLY

RESERVOIRS NOW FILLING UP

OVER 2,000,000,000 GALLONS

Over an inch of rain was registered at the Royal Observatory in the twenty-four hours ended at 10 a.m. to-day, bringing the total for the year to 54.44.

Although this is 22 inches below the average, all further anxiety regarding a possible water shortage in the Colony in the coming Spring has now been relieved.

The mainland reservoirs, it was revealed as a result of enquiries this morning, now contain over two thousand million gallons, the official
rain being 2,050,000,000 gallons.

The reservoirs are now only about 300,000,000 gallons short of their total capacity.

THE TYPHOON.

The anticyclone is now centred over South Manchuria and Korea.
The typhoon entered the coast at about 11 p.m. last night on a westerly track near or over Haiphong; it is probably falling up to the N.W. of Hainan this morning.

Local forecast:—East winds, moderate; cloudy with occasional rain, improving.

Hundreds Killed and Wounded: Hotel National Massacre Stories

STREET FIGHTING

BULLETS FLY

Havana, Oct. 3.
The streets of Havana
flowed with blood yesterday
in the worst disturbances
since Machado was ousted.
Hundreds were killed and wounded.

There are ugly stories
of a terrible massacre of officers at the Hotel National.

The soldiers are apparently out of hands and have been engaged in street fighting all day with Communists and
students.

The real carnage did not begin until after nightfall although the
day had been one of terrorism, in which thirty-nine persons were known to have been killed and fifty-
nine wounded.

Fighting was resumed on a terrifying scale soon after dark.
Firing was audible from almost every point of the city.

MOB ATTACKS.

The shooting appears to have been initiated when soldiers fired
into the air in an attempt to disperse a mob bent on looting the Hotel National, where a handful of officers are believed to be still holding out, though the main part of the building is in the hands of jubilant soldiery.

Most of the disarmed officers
were taken to Fort Cabanas
through jeering crowds, but it was subsequently reported that a remnant of the officers loyal to the Cespedes regime, left temporarily in the hotel, were slaughtered in cold blood.

This dreadful affair is various-
ly attributed to "Colonel" Batista,
who is alleged to have issued orders, to the Communists and to students run wild.

SOLDIERS OUT OF HAND.

The soldiers are apparently out
of hand following the heavy strains of the past week and are engaged in guerrilla warfare against the Communists and students. The latter are armed with hand grenades.

FORTY SOLDIERS SLAIN.

It is now stated that at least 75 have been killed, of which number forty are soldiers and ten are officers. Twenty students are among the dead.

Pedestrians in large numbers
have been struck by stray bullets
and hundreds have been wounded,
overtaxing the resources of Havana's hospitals.—Reuter.

ENCOURAGING

FIGURES

London, Oct. 2.
Encouraging indications of a world recovery from the long period of economic depression
were cited by the Head of the League of Nations' Financial Section, Mr. Alexander Loveday, at Geneva to-day.

Addressing the Assembly's
Economic and Monetary Committee, he referred to the worldwide indications of economic recovery.

Industrial production and consumption were increasing while
the contraction in world trade appeared to have been checked, at any rate for the moment.

The monthly trade for last July
of forty-seven countries representing nine-tenths of the world's trade showed that the value of such trade, calculated on a gold
currency, was greater than in the corresponding month of last year.
Exports rose by as much as ten
per cent. which was the equivalent of 278 million gold dollars.

PRODUCTION RISES.

In the world as a whole, industrial production has risen by
over thirty per cent.

Diminution in the figures of unemployment was also shown by the returns for July, August and September, published by the International Labour Office. The
Report shows an improvement in the situation for the first time since the economic depression
began and it is recorded that a substantial diminution in the number of unemployed has taken place
in many countries, particularly in Great Britain, Australia, Canada,
Ireland, Belgium, Italy, Chile, Denmark, Portugal and Roumania.—

WITH FINLAND

CONCESSIONS
ALL ROUND

London, Oct. 2.
The text is issued of the Anglo-
Finnish Commercial Agreement
signed at Helsinki last Friday. The agreement comes into force three days after the exchange of ratifications.

Finland imports about £10,000,000
worth of goods annually, of which at present between two and three millions are taken from Britain. Britain on the other hand
buys about £10,000,000 worth of goods annually from Finland.

The present treaty runs for three years and is terminable at six months' notice. It assures to Finland for the period of the agreement, a continuance of the most-favoured-nation treatment
together with an additional concession on Finland specialties,
whereby the present ten per cent.
duty on birch and plywood is consolidated and the duty on wooden sawing tools reduced from 20 per cent. to 15 per cent.

Finland also will reserve a suitable share of any quotas introduced to regulate entry into Britain of agricultural produce.

FRANCE'S OFFER

ECHO DE PARIS
EXAGGERATES

Paris, Oct. 3.
Reuter is authoritatively informed that France is prepared
to reduce the number of her effectives and the term of military service.

This latter concession will only
be made by France, provided a similar type of service is accepted by other countries, including Germany.

It is, however, stated that there is nothing in the communication
made by M. Paul Boncour to Sir
John Simon concerning France's disarmament policy to justify the figures published in the Echo de Paris.

The Echo de Paris asserted that France had indicated willingness to reduce her effectives by 300,000
men and to reduce the term of service to eight months.—Reuter.

TROUBLE OVER

NANKING FINANCIAL PROBLEMS

Nanking, Oct. 3.
Well informed circles believe that there was a danger of a
Kai-shek and Mr. T. V. Soong over
the disposal of the funds of the American wheat loan, which has been avoided.

The improvement in the situation is shown by the return from Shanghai of Messrs. Wang Chingwei, Tseng Chun-ming and Huang
Fu, the Chairman of the Peking
Political Committee.

Rumours of Wang Ching-wei's
intended resignation have ended
with his return to the capital.
In a press statement, Mr. Wang
Ching-wei said he had reached an understanding concerning the financial problems with Mr. T. V.
Soong during their Shanghai meetings.—Special.

Troops ordered out to protect a threatened coal mine in the United States.

NEW YORK FOOD SUPPLY THREATENED

SERIOUS OUTLOOK

NEW YORK, OCT. 2.

MENACING NEW YORK'S FOOD SUPPLIES.

The President's hope that the new coal code would permit the miners to return to work has not materialised.
A complete impasse seems to exist in the coal industry as the result of the battle of the owners against
the Union system.

These serious developments, coupled with scepticism
in the business world regarding the efficacy of the Government recovery measures are continuing to hamper the National Industrial Recovery Administration, which is meeting with resistance on all sides.

New York food is threatened by a strike of seventeen thousand lorry drivers.

They are demanding a five-day
week at a six-day wage and their officials are boasting of the im-
mobilisation of seventy-five thousand sacks of flour.

The Ford plant at Edgewater in
New Jersey has been closed down,
throwing twenty-five thousand
workers into idleness.

NO PROSECUTIONS.

Twelve thousand tool and die
makers have joined the ranks of strikers at Detroit, Flint and Pontiac.

The Coal Code became effective
as from to-day, but there are over
a hundred thousand steel and coal workers continuing the strike in
Indiana.

The Attorney-General to-day issued orders to the Federal Attorneys to refrain from prosecuting violators of the Codes.—
Reuter.

INFLATION ISSUE.

President Roosevelt and the Secretary of Treasury, Mr. William Woodin, are stated to be of opinion
that there is sufficient wealth and
idle money in most communities
of the United States to assist the closed banks in getting on their feet and resuming business without resort to inflation.

A survey by the Federal Reserve
banks and representatives of the Finance Corporation is said to have shown that persons interested in many of the closed banks thought that recovery could not be obtained in six months. There had been ups and downs but the net result was consistent gain.—Reuter.

SELF-HELP.

The President feels that, in most localities, persons with money to invest, merchants who need the banking facilities, and even neighbouring banks, are able to assist the banks that have been in trouble.

While the Government is still willing to assist, Mr. Woodin is said to have suggested that the Federal Government should adopt a policy of helping communities that seem to be eager to help themselves.

According to the plan that was said to have been considered local leaders will announce how much help communities can give and after that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation will help. This plan, it is said, appeared to Mr.
Woodin as the most logical means of thawing out the frozen deposits.

PRESIDENT DISAPPOINTS.

Chicago, Oct. 2.
All America waited upon President Roosevelt's speech to the annual Convention of the American Legion this afternoon, anticipating an important announcement defining the Administration's monetary policy.

A disappointment was, however, in store. No reference was made by the President to inflation or to foreign affairs.

COUP DE LYON
BREAKS DOWN

PRICE TOPPLES
TO 100/1

London, Oct. 3.
A sensation was caused by racing circles to-day by fairly reliable reports that Mr. Howard
de Walden's crack Coup de Lyon
had broken down in training.

Reports state that Coup de Lyon
is suffering from weakness in the loose and may never be fit enough
to race again.

Coup de Lyon was until to-day
second favourite for the Cambridge Stakes, to be run shortly, and was, in fact, very strongly fancied. His betting
price came down with a run to 100
to 1.

There seems to be little doubt about Coup de Lyon's lack of fitness, but there is evidently a hope in some quarters that he may be brought up to scratch in time for the race. There were taken at the odds of 100/1 to-day.—

STREET BRAWL SEQUEL

CASE AGAINST SIAMSE ON FRIDAY

Arising out of the brawl outside the Hongkong Fish Store on Friday last three Siamese students, Hoon Phongsien, 17, Kwam Chong
Charoon, 20, and Thomas Yee, 24, made their second appearance before Mr. Balfour in the Central Police Court this morning charged with fighting.

Hoon Phongsien is further charged with the possession of an unlawful instrument, more commonly known as a "life preserver".
Mr. R. C. H. Lim, instructed by Messrs. Russ & Company, appeared this morning for the first and second defendants.

His Worship fixed hearing for Friday, October 6, at 2.30 p.m.
Defendants are on bail of $200 each.

It is recalled that a quarrel over a girl in the Butterfly Dining Academy on Friday night resulted in a fierce fight outside the Hongkong Fish Store, and but for the timely intervention of a Police Reservist, Mr. Ho Yiu-nam, the brawl might have developed into serious proportions.

One of the participants was removed to hospital with a deep stab wound in the back.

PEITAIHO BANDIT RUMOURS

Foreigners Not Menaced

Peking, Oct. 3.
The vernacular newspapers this morning declare that Peitaiho bandit has been occupied by bandits who, however, are not molesting the few foreigners who remain at the seaside resort.

The story cannot be confirmed at present, but it appears to be easily possible.—Reuter.

Later information is to the effect that the bandits, who were few in number, were disarmed by the Peace Preservation Corps.

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By Alice Hart
Don't forget your hands when you plan your autumn beauty schedule.
Your hands should be white and smooth. Hand lotions and bleaching creams will go far toward improving the texture of your skin.
Polished hands are an asset to any woman. Learn to hold them quietly in your lap when you are sitting still. Don't fold and unfold them dozens of times while you are talking to someone. And don't fuss with your clothing. It is irritable to watch a woman who is constantly picking at her dress, patting her hair or rubbing the arms of the chair.
There is something restful about a girl who sits down calmly and retains her poise. Polished hands are as important as a polished body.
Imagine that you are shaking water from your finger tips. Let your hands be perfectly limp and relaxed. It stretches and relaxes all the muscles in your hands and fingers.
Never wear gloves which are too tight. Your hands won't actually look smaller and they'll be cramped and red when the gloves are removed.

YOUR CHILDREN

Curing a Child's Fear of Water

By Olive Roberts Barton

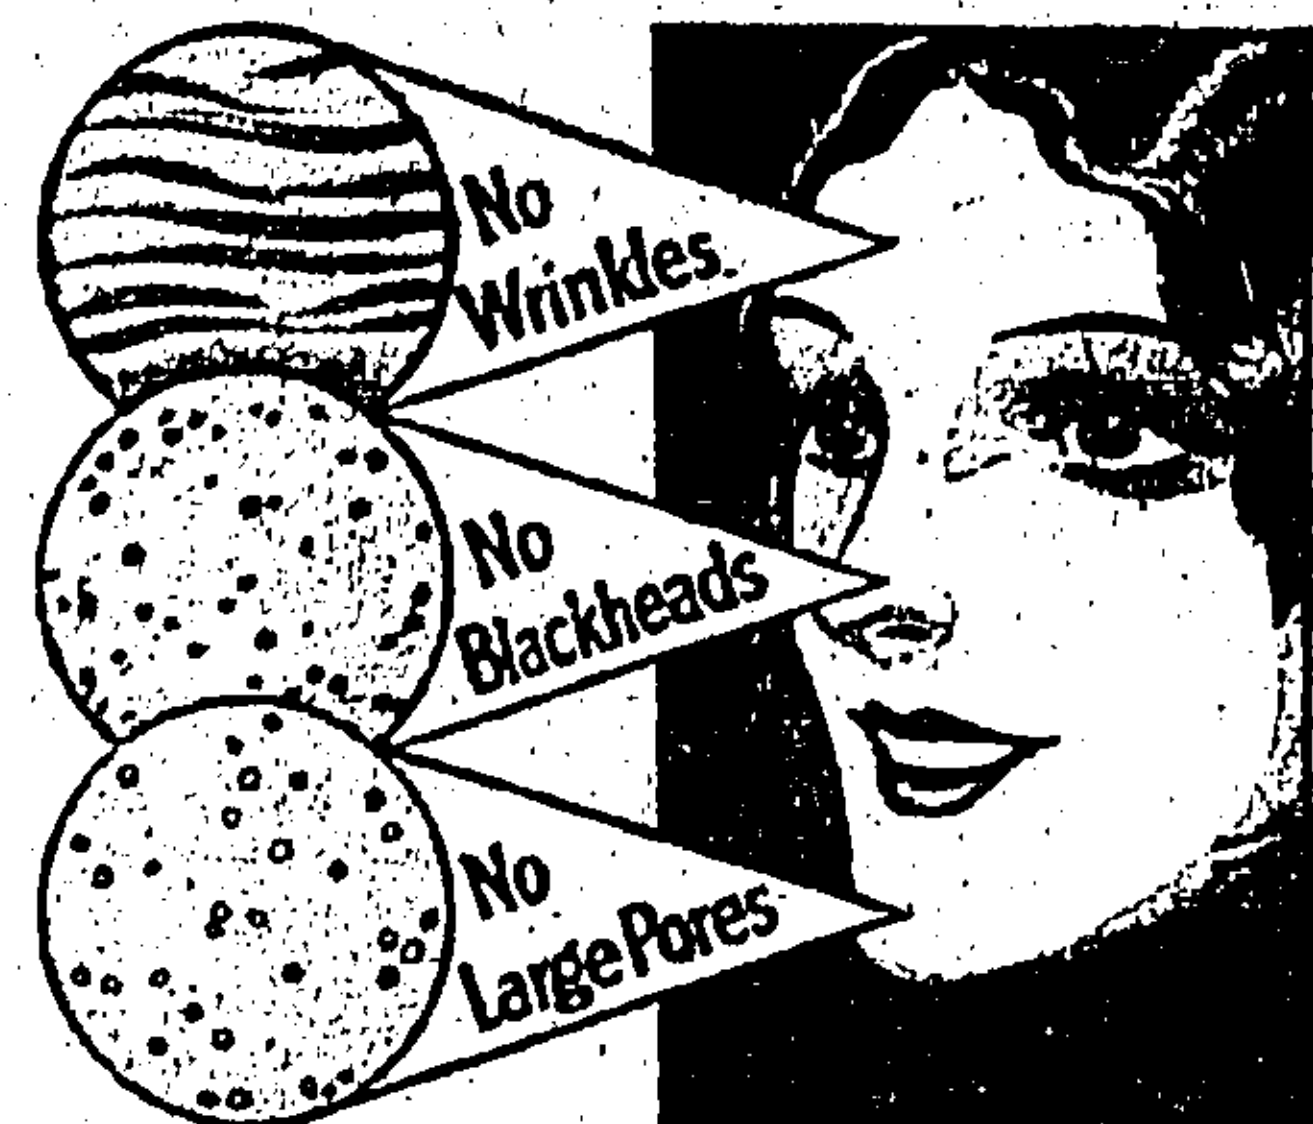

Patty in her tiny bathing suit approached the sea.
From the road, the waves had looked little. But to her three-foot-three the waves now looked like skyscrapers.
Unfortunately it was high tide. Also a wind had come up and the breakers crashed close to shore.
"I'm scared," she said with white lips, and turned to run back.
"Now then, Pat, don't be a baby," said her father. "You promised you wouldn't be afraid of the water. Come on—take my hand and we'll just go in a little way."
"Don't, Jim! Don't frighten her," begged her mother. "The water makes such a noise it almost scares me too. It's awfully rough—and look at all that dirty seaweed."

A Reluctant Bather
"If you'd just keep quiet, Sue, she'd be all right. You're going to be a soldier, aren't you, Pat?" Oh, don't do that, come on. I'll pick you up and carry you on my shoulder."
Patty's lips were white. Her eyes looked like holes burned in a blanket. Terror stiffened her little body. But her father picked her up and waded into the water. He didn't keep his word. He kept on going shouldering his way through the breakers to the swells. If he had looked at Patty he would have known she was almost in a fainting condition. Because she did not scream or cry out he thought she liked it.

Out in the swells the undertow caught his feet. He lost his balance and let go of Patty. She was swept under, but some miracle of the waves rolled her out on the beach at last.
She was full of water, but coughed, gasped, and cried and finally she was all right.

Fear Deep-Seated
Her father and mother were beside her. Her father was laughing. "Atta girl! Wasn't that fun? Now you'll never be afraid of the water again, will you?" That was a good ducking.
But her mother caught a look in the child's eyes. "Jim, if you take her in again I'll pack up and go home. She's in a bad way."
"If you'd only shut up—" Jim had a lot to say. But Patty's mother had her way.
Patty hated the ocean. She wouldn't go on the sand, even, if she could help it. She will always be afraid of water. Her father simply didn't know that you can't force a child out of fear. It has to be done in an entirely different way.

For the LOVE of EVE by Lucy Walling

CHAPTER XXXVII

Dick wrote glowingly of his new work and life in the mountain camp. Fall had definitely arrived now. Eve could picture the brilliant crimson, golds and russets of the mountain sides. She could almost hear the rustle of the fallen leaves as the men tramped through the woods and smell the invigorating fragrance of the evergreens. Dick was no poet but each letter moved a spell over Eve. He was a man of the outdoors and delighted in his new surroundings. Eve could picture him, throwing back his shoulders and scanning the blue September sky through the tree tops. Oh, yes, she knew he was enjoying the new job!

He had laid out the work soon after his arrival. Foundation of the buildings were already being built on both sites. Dick's office was a crude shack, hastily put together. Later it would be weather-stripped and equipped with a big coal burning stove as protection against the severe winter to come. Already the nights were cold.

With three or four of the others working on the job—the time-keeper, carpenter foreman and another engineer—Dick boarded at the home of a Mrs. Williams who lived in Pine Forest, a village four miles from their work. They drove back and forth from the village on a main highway that was excellently paved, though hilly.

Once Dick asked Eve to send him a red sweater to wear in the woods when he went hunting. The same season would soon be open and there was a lodge available for week-ends.

If Dick missed Eve he did not say so in his letters. He sent her his love always and assurance that she was the dearest wife in the world.

There were times when Eve felt that she had everything in the world a girl could want. She had an excellent job and seemed on the road to professional success. She had a fine husband and she was sure that through her stock market ventures she would soon achieve wealth. What more was to be desired?

Thus she summarized her assets and gave herself a mental pat on the back on the morning she received Dick's letter asking her to send the sweater.

Eve dropped the letter into her purse and a little later went to the men's sportswear department to buy the sweater. While she was completing the purchase a telephone call came for her. Miss Gilday, the switchboard operator, told her in a swift, low voice that the Sloan and Stanford Company had been trying to locate her.

Eve felt a premonition of disaster. Her mouth went dry and she looked about quickly. There were clerks and customers near, so she told Miss Gilday she would call from another telephone. Upstairs in the ladies' lounge there were booths and direct line telephones. Eve went into one of these booths and put through the call.

"Atlas Coupler has been receding rapidly," Mrs. Rader, said the young man in the brokerage office. "I'm sorry but if you wish to protect your interests it will be necessary for you to deposit a substantial sum at once."

"I see!" gulped Eve. "How much will I need?"

"Why, I'd say about $400 or $500," the young man told her crisply. "It's likely that will be an adequate safeguard."

"The market never goes down more than 25 points before advancing, does it?" she asked naively.

"It doesn't usually, but of course we can't tell for certain what will happen," he answered.

"I see. I'll bring you a cheque," Eve promised.

She felt she had no alternative, even though she might be violating a trust. Dick had deposited $600 in a joint account before leaving Lako City. He had impressed upon her the importance of having such an emergency fund.

"If anything should happen you could draw on it, Eve," he had said. "You might be taken sick and there would be no one to take care of you. I'd want you to go to a hospital and have the best of care instead of lying here alone. And hospitals cost money!"

Now Eve drew $400 from that fund. The balance she left in the bank to ease her conscience.

If she had been disappointed by the calm appearance of the brokerage office in normal times the impression was forever erased from her mind by the picture which greeted her that autumn day in 1929. Pandemonium reigned.

The Sloan and Stanford clientele had lost its air of reserve. Excitement increased as dozens elbowed each other to watch the ticker returns being chalked on the board. Telephone bells rang constantly and uniformed messenger boys dashed in and out of the offices.

Eve was not the only one who had been margining, she could see plainly. In the confused frenzy of that noon hour many persons were making out cheque to prevent their holdings from being swept away. The customary privacy granted a client was absent and no one seemed to mind. Eve parted with her $400 without ceremony. So hastily was it swept from her that she felt a physical sense of shock.

She returned to the office, utterly unable to concentrate on her work. Fortunately Barnes was away most of the afternoon and the newspapers had been supplied with corrected copy for the next day.

The stock edition showed that Atlas Coupler had closed 15 points below yesterday's final. Eve was agitated and slept very little that night.

The morning newspaper featured the activities of the stock market and Eve digested every word. She felt at a loss to know what to do—had no idea where to seek advice.

Barnes was extremely irritable that morning. Arlene, with notebook and pencil, came from his office, scowling fiercely. "The old grouch!" she said. "You'd think he'd lost a million and a quarter on the stock exchange yesterday."

"Maybe he did lose," nodded Eve. "I feel panicky myself. Not only Atlas Coupler but everything else has taken such a toboggan slide I don't know what to make of it! I couldn't stand it to lose all the money I've invested. Why—I don't know what I'd do!"

But Eve had to stand it. Later in the day she received another telephone call from Sloan and Stanford for more money to cover her holdings. She told them it was impossible for her to raise more. Then she went limp.

"Arlene," she gasped, "I'm wiped out! Completely. All my money and all I borrowed from my mother and Esther and nearly all that Dick left in our emergency fund!"

"Don't take it so hard," comforted Arlene. "I know how you feel." She was thinking of the little flyer she had taken into the financial world some months before.

There was, of course, no upward reaction at all. Eve was to come out of the stock crash of 1929 drier and white-livered but much wiser than she had been before.

There were others, she knew, whose losses were far more serious than her own. Eve felt a great compassion for her fellow sufferers as she puzzled over the frailty of the investor's position in the nation's financial structure.

She resolved to begin repaying her mother and Esther for their loans. She could send a little money each pay day. And somehow she would have to save $400 to return to Dick's emergency fund. For weeks she was nervous after the market crash.

On the following Saturday Mona Allen asked Eve to take dinner with her. "Mrs. Ball is an excellent cook," she said, "and there is an interesting group of people at the boarding house."

Eve thought rapidly. Mona would be likely to take a refusal as an affront. And Mona, offended, was altogether too skilful at finding means of retaliation. There were many opportunities for the younger girl to cause unpleasantness if not actual harm to Eve, working together as they did.

So Eve accepted the invitation and was surprised to find that more than once in the intervening days she actually looked forward to the approaching Saturday evening. She missed Dick more than she dared admit to herself. Sometimes she thought she had made a mistake in keeping the apartment after he left and wondered if it would not be preferable to live in a boarding house. But the familiar rooms seemed to bring Dick nearer and so Eve stayed on. Often she sat in the big chair that was his favourite and sobbed herself to sleep.

Since her loss on the market Eve had been overwhelmed by a sense of failure. "There's just one thing my remaining pride hangs on," she told herself. "That's my job. I must make good at this job. And making good means only one thing to me—getting the management when Barnes leaves!"

Thus it seemed imperative to keep the good will of Mona Allen. (To Be Continued).

MR. NATHA SINGH

DEATH OF SUPREME COURT INTERPRETER

A well-known officer at the Supreme Court, Mr. Natha Singh, who has been interpreter for the past few years, passed away on Saturday morning at the Government Civil Hospital after a short illness.

Born on September 3, 1880, Mr. Natha Singh joined the Government service on November 22, 1906, and in 1915 was fifth grade clerk at the Magistrate. There was a large attendance at the funeral on Saturday afternoon. The remains were cremated.

Deceased took a keen interest in sports and was a committee member of the Indian Recreation Club.

Snake and The Cricket Ball

WHAT THE FIELDER SAID

Sydney, N.S.W.
Snakes and the cricket season make their appearance pretty well together; that fact has a bearing on a Dr. Bettington story. The golfer-cricket, always ready for a knock, agreed to take part in a picnic-cricket match, while he was on a trip to the country. The ground was a rough one, upon which scrub and tussocky grass still impinged. A ball, well smacked by the doctor, went into this wilderness, with a fieldman after it. He pulled up suddenly, apparently unable to locate the ball, and the batsmen started another run.

"Urny up, Bill!" called out members of the fielding team, "they're running a three!"
"They can run blunty thirty for all I care," yelled Bill. "There's a blunty snake here, and he thinks he had more right to the ball than I have."
An alert-minded player promptly checked the tallying of runs by calling "lost ball," and the game was adjourned while the snake was killed.—Reuter.

CABARET REGULATIONS

The long promised regulations for the licensing and control of local cabarets and dancing establishments have at last made their appearance in draft form and they will be welcomed as putting the business on a proper footing. There appear to have been two reasons for the delay; a study has been made of the manner in which existing academies have been conducted since the curfew restriction; and the opportunity has been seized of overhauling the Ordinance and regulations dealing with all manner of "small-beer" licences. A survey of the proposals suggests that the time spent has been well worth while, and the authorities can be complimented upon a thorough grasp of conditions, good and bad, as they have been presented in the experimental stages through which the local form of cabaret may be said to have been passing. This insight shows itself in a number of important provisions affecting the conduct of establishments which are now to be officially admitted into the realm of legitimate business. In prescribing rules which are comprehensive enough to leave very little to chance, they do no more than take note of requirements which occasionally have made themselves felt. In the mass they seem formidable enough and to some extent leave an impression that the recreation of dancing is to be instilled with a Sunday School atmosphere, were it possible. A more careful scrutiny, however, leads to the conviction that they conform largely to the ordinary etiquette of the ballroom, though the prescriptions as to dress may verge perilously on controversial issues happily not hitherto seriously embarked upon in legal enactments. Another point which it is sought to clear up, but has been left conspicuously ambiguous by the proposed rules, concerns the register required to be kept of dancing partners of both sexes. Assuming that male dancing teachers are envisaged, and provided for in the new ruling, what application has this to the majority of the members of the other sex to be found in these halls who may in the past have exercised a different metier but who have gravitated to these public dancing resorts? We gather that objection may not be taken to their assumption of

NOTES OF THE DAY

DISARMAMENT

French concessions on the disarmament issue give rise to increased optimism, although the Echo de Paris seems to have exaggerated the extent. The figures seemed astonishing on their face and prompt warning of their inaccuracy was perhaps to have been expected. The official statement, however, reveals clearly that France is prepared to travel a certain way on the path suggested, and that in itself is a great deal. The future lies with Herr Hitler's response to the proposals which are being presented to him in detailed form by Baron von Neurath.

HITLER'S TASK

The world is still open to be convinced that Germany is not out, as many had begun to fear, to wreck the Disarmament Conference and to rush headlong into a fevered frenzy of re-armament. In the meantime, if the other Great Powers are inclined to suspicion, Hitler can only blame the wilder manifestations of Nazi policy, which alienated even those disposed to recognise the justice of many of Germany's demands. Hopes rest on the sincerity of the Reichstag speech. The proof of the words will lie in the deeds which follow. For Germany fully to regain her lost prestige, the spirit of the Reichstag speech must be reflected in the policy of the German delegation at Geneva. The Chancellor declared that he sees in the British plan a probable basis for disarmament, and the other Powers are prepared to take him at his word. The subsequent negotiations will soon show whether Hitler is in earnest.

FRANCE AND RUSSIA

In the meantime, eager attention is turned on France's relations with Russia and M. Edouard Herriot's recent visit to Moscow, which obviously aimed at reconstitution of the pre-war alliance. In some quarters distrust of Russia overweighs the possible diplomatic advantages of the closer rapprochement. In others M. Herriot is criticised for pursuing a personal policy. M. Herriot's pronouncements have unquestionable significance. Thus in the Museum of Revolution he said: "We have not forgotten the series of great revolutions which mark the history of France. That is why we observe with sincere and profound sympathy the efforts you are making against absolutism, and these you manifest in building a new society. I have set myself the task of strengthening in all domains the friendship between the peoples of our two great countries."

OFFICIAL STATUS

This declaration is typical and indicates the importance attached to a Franco-Russian understanding. Certainly M. Herriot possessed no official powers for the moment but it is to be remembered that he is chief of the Radical Party which holds office and will probably figure again in the next government. It is also to be remembered that he was entrusted by the present government with a mission to America. The suggestion that he was definitely acting for the Government in Russia cannot be confirmed. It is believed that he was not invested with material authority, but was rather surveying the ground. His precise status, acknowledged or unacknowledged, does not really matter. Either he will soon be master of French foreign policy or, through his party, will decisively influence it.

a new role, but the question of abuse again enters. The proposed Ordinance seeks to remedy the weakness by providing for the exclusion of persons of known notorious character, but the responsibility for giving what in the United States would be termed a break is not a light one.

SO DON'T FEAR BLOOD PRESSURE

By A MEDICAL SPECIALIST

MEMBERS of the general public must sometimes wonder whether diseases go in cycles. There was a time when colitis was a word heard everywhere; then appendicitis became "fashionable."

Now it is blood-pressure.

The heart is a pump and it pumps against the pressure of the blood vessels of the body. These are elastic in youth; with age they tend to harden. The elasticity lessens the work of the heart; lack of elasticity adds to that work.

The pressure is measured quite simply in units and any divergence from the normal is readily revealed.

SOME MISCONCEPTIONS.

What, then, does it mean when a physician tells a patient that he has "high blood-pressure"?

Merely this—that his heart has more work to perform than in a normal individual.

I have had patients who seemed to think that a rising blood-pressure was, by analogy, like a rising steam-boller temperature; that at a certain point something would burst.

This is entirely wrong. The heart is a pump, as I have said. High blood-pressure involves for it more work; that is all.

I have known people with high blood-pressure who became obsessed with the idea that their overburdened hearts would become diseased. Here, again, there is no scientific ground for such a view.

As the late Sir Clifford Allbutt said of such cases: "These hearts are nearly always strong and faithful to the end."

Why, if this be so, do medical men to-day seem to stress so much this condition?

The answer is simple.

NOT IRREMEDIABLE.

I have before me medical histories going back over twenty years. Let me take one. The patient, a lady, came to me in 1909. She was then 63 years of age. She had a very high blood-pressure. She is still alive and in her 88th year.

High blood-pressure, unlinked with any other serious condition, is a matter that can be treated successfully in most cases, if not in all.

What the physician does in such cases is to indicate the habit of life attendant on the condition and the appropriate alleviation.

For instance, a patient with high blood-pressure who otherwise appears to enjoy good health and to be free of organic defects is told to eat sparingly, to drink sparingly, to avoid excitement.

This was the invariable advice of Sir William Osler, one of the greatest of modern teachers and healers. My own experience has taught me its supreme value.

Although high blood-pressure is often the result of changes in the arterial system, it is not always so.

High blood-pressure may exist in a patient who has no appreciable change in the blood system, no organic disease or other defect. It may be, in fact, the result of what we term "tone."

"Tone" might be described as the habit of body. For example, an individual may be somewhat "over-toned;" life in him is exuberant. The pressure, however, falls upon his arterial system and throws added work upon the heart.

If one cured such people of their high blood-pressure they would not feel nearly so well. They are better off as they are.

Looking back over a long professional career, my case book supplies me with many instances of patients with records of high blood-pressure who died, full of years, of some ailment associated with old age.

AVOID WORRYING.

Now the advance of medical knowledge reveals, year by year, the vast influence of the mind upon the body.

People who find that they have high blood-pressure very often begin to call in the aid of their misguided minds to make things worse. They begin by worrying; they end with "high blood-pressure phobia."

I have found that the chief source of anxiety is the dread of a "stroke." Let me stress this other truth: high blood-pressure unassociated with other serious organic disease is not likely to produce a "stroke."

To fear such a consequence is to submit to years of mental torture that will produce only one certain result: a lowering of the general vitality and tone, a lessening of the normal enjoyment of life.

CULTIVATE TRANQUILITY.

States of worry, anxiety, and a morbid preoccupation with a physical condition are the chief factors in raising pressure.

The individual who has been told that he has high blood-pressure should not on that account be unduly alarmed.

In the first place, he should follow his doctor's advice about diet, exercise, and rest. After that, he should see what the psychologists can tell him. Their counsel (at one with the physician) is very simple.

In a word, it will be: Fear not. Cultivate a tranquil habit of mind. Do not worry.

Exercise; keep down excessive fat; never cheat yourself of the hours of sleep.

Do these things and, all other things being equal, even with high blood-pressure you may hope, quite reasonably, to emulate my blood-pressure patient whose 88th birthday falls before this year is out.

The Very Idea!

REMOVAL TIME.

By Ed. Kelly, Well Removed

UNTIL yesterday we were always under the impression that the people in the flat across the street had a very nice home, with inlaid mahogany and Persian rugs, Jacobean oak and glittering glass, down cushions and choice water-colours.

But that was before they leased their new flat at Kowloon Tong, and got into the clutches of the removal men.

These miseries turned up with six bamboo poles, and decanted several old sacks all over the road.

They then went carefully through the house and selected the most dilapidated pieces of furniture they could find, and arranged them on the pavement as an exhibition.

There was an old carpet with a hole burnt in the middle, and a painted stand with a broken leg. Somewhere they dug up an old zinc bath which they filled with rusty saucepans.

Finally one of them, uttering het-yahs of triumph, came out with a packing case, having a china cover, which had been used to store boots and shoes.

After this they carried out the best items wrapped up in sackings, so that nobody could see them, unless they happened to be shabby, or broken, in which case they gave them a few bumps on the pavement.

Every window in the street which commanded a view was occupied by a neighbour who was making up her mind to tell her husband that night what a lot of rubbish those stuck up So-and-So's had collected.

We don't know why removal men do this kind of thing unless it is because most of them also sell furniture, and they want to shame you into buying some new pieces from them.

A JOB FOR SOMEBODY

Every few years or so somebody—usually in Vienna—claims to have invented an elastic glass, but up till now we haven't seen any on the market, which is a pity.

Apart from the obvious advantages of a windshield which would bounce you back into your seat if you stepped too hard on the brakes, it would have many other uses. We have sometimes tried to wash a tumbler, and if we don't burst the thing by putting our great fist into it, we drop it, with the same result. But you could turn an elastic glass inside out like a bag.

There are certain people who hesitate to look into a mirror, in case of accidents, but a resilient glass would stand up to anything, and then come back for more punishment.

Further, we are always sorry for the bluebottle which fancies a window is not there because he can't see it. He must get a fearful headache at times. So does the goldfish which tried to swim across the room to get away from a nagging wife. And think how wonderful it would be to get a quart into a pint flask, providing you could get it out again.

MODERN VERSION

Hel-diddle-diddle, a cat and a fiddle
Held forth in opposition.
And the neighbours averred that what they'd heard,
Was a cabaret band exhibition.

If there's one thing that annoys us it's a nagging woman.
Nagging women were invented long before sheep, despite what scientists tell us about being descended from animals. We have descended so low, in fact, that if we were any lower we wouldn't be high enough to live in Kowloon.

In fact the earliest man and woman used to meet under a Stone, which was why it was called a stone age. They used to be called Amoebas, but it is not chronicled what they called each other.

It was not until they began to walk on their legs that they first discovered about Love. This was known as the Dark Age, which accounts for the fact that all pitting, even to the present day, is done with the lights turned low. Children were not discovered until the following year, and by then it was too late.

Nevertheless, Love still gallops on.

"Let's act like we know something about gears and cylinders so he won't sell us a lemon."

WAR DEBTS RUMOUR

LUMP SUM OFFER BY BRITAIN

SPECULATION IN AMERICA

Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, Economic Adviser to the British Government, is due in Washington this week to open the war debt negotiations.

Although American Treasury officials have indicated that it is unlikely that any details of the debt conversations with Sir Frederick Leith-Ross will be made public until the conversations are concluded, there are reports in Washington that Sir Frederick will propose a lump sum settlement.

This report which was put into circulation on Friday, has reached a number of Congressmen and some of them are said to favour it, provided Great Britain does not ask for too great a reduction. It is said, however, that few, if any, members of Congress will approve a settlement of ten per cent. in full settlement.

The present capital value of the debt still owing by Britain is $3,600,000,000 and despatches from London have reported that Great Britain will offer a lump sum settlement of just one-tenth.

FORM IMPORTANT.

What economists are worried about is the form in which this amount, or any other lump sum, would be tendered. It was reported that the inflationist group might support it if Great Britain would agree to pay in silver purchased in the American market.

This, however, is considered in most quarters as too visionary, especially in view of the fact that the scope of the conversations is to be widened. It was admitted by officials that the United States representatives will discuss any economic, monetary or trade question that Sir Frederick may propose although no pledges have been made that any offer except full payment will be accepted.

DOLLAR STABILISATION.

The firm opinion that had prevailed to the effect that stabilisation of the dollar in relation to the pound would be discussed, were, in opinion of economists, confirmed when the State Department announced that the Treasury Department will conduct the debt negotiations.

Mr. Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, announced on Friday that Mr. Dean Acheson, Under-Secretary of the Treasury, and Dr. Frederick Liversey, assistant economist in the State Department, will conduct the discussions on behalf of America. The meetings will, however, be in the Treasury offices instead of the State Department as heretofore.

It is pointed out that, should a lump sum be rejected, Sir Frederick and Mr. Acheson will undoubtedly discuss a revision of the semi-annual instalments. In that event, observers said, Great Britain is not likely to make any pledge regarding such instalments unless the value of the dollar could be made reasonably stable for the period of the payments.

It is believed that the first negotiations will be preliminary and that other British officials may join in later if the first talks are successful.

JOCKEY'S UNMUZZLED DOG

Mr. Soares Fined for Offence

Mr. F. M. L. Soares, the well-known local jockey, appeared before Mr. Butters at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning as defendant to two summonses for allowing two dogs to be in Chatham Road without muzzles on August 20. Mr. M. A. da Silva defended.

It was stated by an Indian constable that he saw two unmuzzled dogs in Chatham Road, and when he chased them, they ran into No. 19 Chatham Road, the residence of Mr. Soares. He called the house-boy and the latter admitted that the dogs belonged to Mr. Soares.

Cross-examined by Mr. Silva, who admitted that one of the dogs belonged to Mr. Soares, witness said he did not notice whether or not there was a dog on the verandah at the time.

A constable in the employ of Mr. Soares testified that only one dog was out in the street. The other dog seen by the constable did not belong to Mr. Soares. His Worship accepted this version and imposed a fine of $8.

POKFULAM ROAD BRIDGE

DANGEROUS DRIVING CHARGE

DISMISSED

"After considering the evidence, I cannot help feeling that there is not enough to justify a conviction for dangerous driving," remarked Mr. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy this morning, when dismissing a summons against Mrs. G. K. Roffey, wife of Mr. M. H. Roffey, of the Hong Kong University.

"It is agreed on both sides," said Mr. Schofield, "that the right hand wheels of defendant's car were four feet away from the parapet. At the speed it was going I feel satisfied that a collision could easily have been avoided, and the dangerous driving is so slight as not to justify a conviction. At the same time I cannot help feeling that the defendant could have kept a little more to the left of the road."

Sergeant's Evidence

Sergeant Youe in evidence said that about 12.20 p.m. on September 20 he was driving along Pokfulam Road towards West Point on his motor cycle combination. About 100 yards East of Mt. Davis Road was a left hand bend with a bridge in the centre. He was about 20 feet from the West end of the bridge when he saw defendant's car coming towards him. He estimated its speed as between 20 and 25 miles an hour. It was entirely on the wrong side of the road, and left him about four feet between which to drive his cycle combination through. He applied his brakes and stopped, while defendant swerved to the other side of the road. The car missed his front wheel by about four feet. He did not hear the horn sounded.

In reply to Mrs. Roffey, witness said that he saw her car about twenty feet away as it was rounding the bend. It was possible to see cars coming round the bend across the ravine. He was driving at 15 miles an hour. He stopped defendant at the Dairy Farm hill, which was about one and a half miles away from the bridge, because when he turned round and followed her thought she had taken the Mt. Davis Road and so took the wrong turning.

A Dangerous Corner.

Mrs. Roffey said that she had been driving for the past twenty years and had never had a conviction of any sort. On this occasion her husband was with her. This particular corner was very wide at the beginning, and narrowed to 20 feet in the middle and was then wide again on the other side. She usually took it at about 17 to 18 miles an hour. Neither she nor her husband saw Sergeant Youe, which was rather extraordinary, and which led her to surmise that he must have been behind some bushes. She was driving in the middle of the road and not on the right, and pulled off to the left on seeing Sergeant Youe. Sergeant Youe applied his brakes, but at no time was there the slightest danger. Sergeant Youe did not sound his horn. She slowed down and looked round, and then proceeded.

No Passing On Bridge

Mr. Roffey said he had never seen two vehicles attempt to pass one another on the bridge itself. It was a very narrow and short bridge, and if there was any passing to do, it was not done on the bridge itself. He had seen other cars taking the bridge, and all were on the wrong side of the road, which was on the centre of the bridge with the right hand wheels over the middle. If Sergeant Youe meant a case like this to be on the wrong side, then they were guilty, but he contended that every car had to take the bridge in this way. The right hand wheels were about four feet away from the parapet. Witness contended that Sergeant Youe should have seen which turn they had taken after passing him, because when he looked round, the sergeant was looking after their car.

TOMBS OF MANY CENTURIES AGO

DISCOVERIES AT NANCHANG

Three tombs have been excavated during the levelling of the ground for the new aerodrome at Nanchang.

The first, of the Ming dynasty (about 300 years old), gave the diggers a great fright, as, when they opened the coffin, the body and face of the woman it contained were perfectly preserved and she looked alive. The air, however, quickly blackened the body and it became dust, as did her costume at the slightest touch. The corpse was clothed in a peculiar but beautifully embroidered costume, which experts declare was that of a Taoist of that dynasty.

Another tomb yielded about 50 valuable relics. They included a string of Buddhist pearl beads, a pair of large dragon and tiger vases about 2 ft. high and of beautiful porcelain, many jade hairpins, wine jars, numbers of old coins, bronze mirrors, cauldrons, dragon winejars, and sacrificial utensils. Experts declare that they belong to the Tang dynasty. The curios are considered by local historians and archaeologists to be of immense value. They are now being preserved in the Government Office.

Valuable relics about 1,000 years old, found in another tomb, included a bronze incense-burner, a pair of flower vases of ancient pottery, number of earthen pots and winejars, and, most valuable of all, a jade bracelet "which shines with radiance in the darkness and in which can be seen blood red lines in the form of dragons." According to a local jeweller, this bracelet is worth from $20,000 to $50,000.—Reuter.

BOSTON BANDITS' BIG HAUL

REGISTERED MAIL CARRIED OFF

Boston, Sept. 28. Four bandits brought off a daring raid to-day and made off with three sacks of registered mail containing money and valuables, estimated by postal officials to be worth more than $100,000. The thieves concealed themselves in telephone booths near the receiving room of the postal station, made a sudden rush and seized the sacks from trucks as the money was about to be removed to be placed on board trains. They then leapt into an automobile and fled with their booty.

SAMUEL INSULL

EXTRADITION CASE ON SATURDAY

The case for the extradition of Samuel Insull, the former Chicago utilities magnate, from Greece will begin on October 7.

Mr. Insull was the head of the gigantic $3,000,000,000 group of utility companies, and had many serious charges of fraud brought against him several months ago but fled to Greece.

Extradition proceedings against him at first fell through, but on August 26 the United States government brought new indictment charges against him. He is now being charged with violating the American bankruptcy laws.

"HORRIBLE BIT OF WORK"

Lord Marley Summarises the S.M.C.

WARNING AGAINST FASCISM

"The Shanghai Municipal Council, of course, is a horrible bit of work. It does not work, in which it resembles the House of Commons, but I think it manages to leave more to its permanent officials than other bodies are prepared to do," remarked Lord Marley, Deputy Speaker of the House of Lords, in the course of an address at the Shanghai Foreign Y.M.C.A. on the British political situation. Commenting that a system which called for superhuman knowledge from ordinary politicians was asking too much, he suggested that the task of Ministers should be the direction of policy only leaving departmental experts to circumvent difficulties.

Answering questions at the close of his speech, Lord Marley said he did not blame Italians in Shanghai for supporting Fascism, but if they were in Italy they might think differently. While Italian Fascism had raised the status of the possessive classes, the position of the working classes in Italy was deplorable. If British workers did not unite against Fascism they would go under precisely as the workers did in Germany.

"The Brown Book"

Referring to details of alleged Nazi victimisation published in the "Brown Book," Lord Marley said: "These things are not done in a civilised country, and I indict the present Government in Germany, as apart from the German people, with whom I have no quarrel, for a regime which I believe to be almost uncivilised in its bestiality and cruelty."

To a questioner who asked if it would not be better if Britain "minded her own business," Lord Marley replied that economic nationalism was no longer possible. Lord Marley mentioned that in the 1929 Labour Government he held no fewer than four positions—not all paid, he regretted. He saw in the paper that one member of the Chinese Government held 10 or 12 positions—no doubt all heavily paid in one way or another, unlike Britain. He had, therefore, seen something of the inside of "probably one of the worst Governments Britain has had during recent years." The 1931 election was peculiar in many ways. In the first place, there was a good deal of log-rolling before the final happy release. The question of agreement or non-agreement to the terms of the American bankers who then ruled England had ever since been the subject of bitter controversy between ex-Ministers and ex-members of the inner committee of five.

Miscellaneous Democracy

One reason for the foregoing re-act of the General Election was that, under the system of mis-called democracy, a vote was given to practically everyone who could read, but could not think. The question put to an audience of 28 millions was:—"Do you consider Britain should remain on the gold standard?" They would probably get a much more intelligent answer from a Shanghai rickshaw coolie, for the simple reason that he did understand the difference between big and small money. The press, B.B.C., and educational system, which formed the opinions of the electors, were all in the hands of the possessive classes. Democracy was useless if they destroyed all the power of the people to think for themselves.

Mr. Baldwin was probably the cleverest man in the Government, for at Cabinet meetings he was able to sit back and leave MacDonald & Co. to fight his battle against the dangerous Conservative hothouse, without getting the blame from his Conservative colleagues. The result was a Government which did virtually nothing, and it was probably the best type of Government they could have at the moment for he felt, if they must have a capitalist system, it was far better it should be run by people who believed in the system. He ventured to prophesy that the next General Election, probably at the end of 1934, would result in a Conservative majority of about 100 seats.

Labour Position

The position of the Labour Party was at present exceedingly rocky. They could not really make up their minds whether they were Socialists or not. Frankly he did not see the possibility of the Communist Party of Great Britain taking over the Government in the immediate future. Most of the I.L.P. members were constantly "falling off the tight rope" in the direction of Communism one side or Liberalism on the other. The Labour Party had

CHINESE AVIATOR'S CROSS COUNTRY JAUNT

Peking, Oct. 2. The Chinese aviator, Captain Chen Wen-ling, who is making a round-the-country flight, left for Chenchow, Honan, to-day. He intends to refuel at Paoingfu and Shihchiachuwang.

Before leaving Peking, Captain Chen gave a demonstration flight over the city.—Reuter.

all the strength, and the Communist Party all the intelligence, and the consequence was that a good many people were attempting to bring together these dis-sentient elements, and, while not yet fully successful, he was bound to say they were making progress. The only alternative to the present do-nothing regime, he thought, was either a grouping together of the disappointed middle classes to sweep away the talking politicians and place the younger people in control of a Fascist administration, or an active Socialist policy, for the benefit not of the few but of the many.

Discussing whether the Parliamentary machine was capable of continuing to function, Lord Marley added that it had been said of any admiration for the House of Lords could be cured by looking at it. This "extremely interesting anachronism" should be abolished lock, stock and barrel. The House of Commons, which had given away most of its powers by Orders-in-Council and the Emergency Powers Act was more difficult.

HADLEY SATISFIES THE CURIOUS

ROZA

START OF UNOFFICIAL INTERPORT

V.R.C. Hold A Slight Advantage

Ever since Frank Hadley started Shanghai with his amazing performances in the water over short distances in the early part of the summer, Hongkong has been curious to see this human destroyer in action.

This curiosity was satisfied last night when, following his recent triumphs in Kobe, he appeared in the V.R.C. bath for the Shanghai Foreign Y.M.C.A. in the first part of an unofficial interport against the Victoria Recreation Club.

He realised all expectations, setting a new record for the 50 yards, giving Roza-Pereira a magnificent race in the 400, almost immediately afterwards and helping the Y.M.C.A. to win the medley relay race.

The V.R.C. finished the evening four points ahead, having gained first place in three of the six events.

Bearing in mind that the visitors arrived only a few hours before and were pitched forthwith into a salt water bath after being used to fresh water conditions, the Shanghai swimmers gave an extraordinarily good account of themselves and broke even for the honours of the evening.

ED. BEATEN.

In addition to Hadley's record breaking 50 yards effort, R. R. Duell came along with a display of diving which set an entirely new standard for this Colony. Ed. da Roza, hitherto unchallenged champion, was decisively beaten for first place.

Lionel Roza-Pereira benefitted by the opposition of Frank Hadley in the 440 yards, winning in the time of 5 minutes 48 4/5 seconds, which was 1 3/5 seconds better than his clocking in the recent V.R.C. championships.

This event was among the best of the evening. Hadley was a game loser, but he could not challenge Roza's burst of speed over the last 40 yards. Gittins also swam well and aided the V.R.C. points aggregate by snatching third place from Logan.

The teams scored the following points.

COUNTY CAPTAINS TO AID

A. E. R. Gilligan, former Sussex county and England Test captain, writing in the News-Chronicle, further discusses Body-Line Bowling and suggests that the M.C.C. appeals to county captains to stamp out this type of bowling.

He writes:

When county cricket began in May, the M.C.C. had just replied to the Australian cable saying that at the end of the season they would receive reports from the county captains and the county committees on the vexed subject of what the Australians call "body-line" bowling.

In a short time these reports will be handed in, and the cricket world is eagerly awaiting an announcement by the M.C.C. Committee.

MORE ACCIDENTS THAN EVER.

Has there been during the past season any head-high bowling set to a leg field, and what has been the effect on the county players? Let me state straightaway that there have been more accidents this season than ever before, and no fewer than five batsmen have been sent to hospital for three weeks or more through being hit on the head and body by these short fast bumpy deliveries.

Some will say that the hard wickets are responsible for this; others will assert that it is the batsman's fault, chiefly owing to the pronounced two-eyed stance and covering up of their wickets. Many more will give their verdict that the bowler is in no way to blame.

But I regret to say—and I have been in constant touch with the players themselves—that in some cases it has looked very much as if fast bowlers were not unwilling to intimidate batsmen.

A "GENTLEMAN'S AGREEMENT."

The remedy for this state of affairs lies wholly in the captains' hands.

LORD HAILSHAM'S OPINION

Let's Drop It For Good Of Game

Eastbourne, Sept. 29.
A reference to bodyline bowling was made by Lord Hailsham, President of the M.C.C., in a speech here to-day.

He said that in sport as in other spheres there were always trouble makers. The suggestion that any member of the English team would bowl purposely to injure batsmen was absurd. If, however, such tactics, though carried out in a true sporting sense, was likely seriously to jeopardize the relationship between England and Australia, it would be better if it were dropped.

It is understood that a special committee at the M.C.C. meeting on October 9 will discuss bodyline bowling and draft a cable reply to the Australian Board of Control.

The opinions of county captains on the subject, it is stated, favour the prohibition of bodyline bowling.

50 TEAMS TAKING PART

FIFTH DIVISION FORMED

So much has soccer increased in popularity among Shanghai football enthusiasts that the Shanghai Football Association has announced that it has been made necessary this year to have five divisions of ten teams each.

The Association has decided that owing to the shortage of grounds teams in the first division only will play off two matches, while junior teams will meet but once.

The fifth division includes a number of new teams, and these will have to play off their engagements on Sunday mornings, as they cannot otherwise be accommodated.

SOKOLS PROMOTED.

In the senior league, the Sokol side has been promoted from the second division, but apart from this, the division remains as it was last season.

As indicated by the number of new candidates, the Association expects to have a record season, and it is reported that many teams are already busy getting fit for their initial games.

The league has been scheduled to start on October 14.

Following are the entries with the divisions allotted them—
1st Division:—A. S. F. British Navy, Chinan, S.F.C., S.M.P., Sokol, S.R.C., 3 Cultures, Tung Wah, Worcester.

2nd Division:—Erin Villa, Italian Navy, Jewish, Lusitano, S.F.C., S.M.P., S.R.C., St. Johns, Telephones, Worcester.

3rd Division:—A.S.F. Area Details, British Navy, Chin Hwa, Lin Nan, Public School, I.A.M.C., R.A.S.C., S.F.C., 3 Cultures.

4th Division:—Area Details, Aurora, Fire Brigade, Lusitano, Nien Chih-kwei, S.F.C., Sokol, Tung Kwang.

5th Division:—Arcadians, Bramtoco, Chinese Police, J.A.C., Jewish, R.M.I.C., Russian Regt., Specials, Telephones, Tung Wah.

Snooker Break of 113

Bulawayo, Sept. 11.
Walter Lindrum, the famous Australian billiards player, who is touring South Africa, put up a new South African snooker record here while playing in an exhibition match with a break of 113, which is also a new personal record for himself.

Playing with Clark McConachy, the New Zealander, who is making the tour with him, Lindrum made eight on his first visit to the table. McConachy replied with a five, and Lindrum then potted all the remaining balls on the table to beat his opponent by 121 points to 5.

Lindrum recently put up a new world's billiards record in South Africa by scoring a thousand in twenty-eight minutes.

jected to much head-high bowling, the Notts captain had a terrible taste of his own medicine with the result that a gentleman's agreement was arrived at by the captains that neither side would adopt these methods in the remainder of their match.

I witnessed a Test Match between England and the West-Indies when both teams employed the fast short bumping leg-theory bowling. The batsmen of both teams were battered and bruised. They openly admitted that they would be glad when a stop was put to such methods.

A DELICATE POSITION.

It must be realised that the M.C.C. Committee are in a delicate and difficult position. Supposing the report of the county captains shows a majority vote against this fast bowling leg-theory, and the county committees state that they have not witnessed very much of it. Will the M.C.C. side with the committees against the opinion of the captains? The latter have been in much closer touch with the game, their players, and cricket generally. Of one thing I am certain. The M.C.C. should pay the greatest attention to the wishes of the captains, in whose hands the future of our game lies.

Another problem arises. Supposing next season two counties are playing, and one captain will not agree that fast leg-theory bowling is against the spirit of the game, and employs it. And suppose the other captain is totally averse to it and asks his rival skipper to refrain from such methods. A deadlock arises. What is the position then?

IN THE TRUE SPIRIT.

I think that, to avoid problems like this arising the M.C.C. Committee, after receiving the reports of the committees and captains, will issue a statement to the following effect:

"We, the M.C.C., have had the opinions of both committees and captains of our county clubs on the subject of fast, short, bumping leg-theory bowling.

"It is difficult to legislate on this matter and we appeal to the captains of our county teams to discontinue in the future any form of attack which is intimidating to the batsman and which, in consequence only engenders bad feeling between the players.

"We hope that the true spirit of cricket will be kept up in accordance with the best traditions of our national game."

condition for the bowls match between Victoria and Shanghai this afternoon.

The match has been arranged to start at 3 o'clock, but the immediate outlook is not hopeful. If play is possible the following players will be on view.

DO YOU BUY YOUR
BEAUTY'S
SAKE?

Different people have different reasons for selecting a pen for personal use. If you want a pen that looks like an aristocrat in your pocket and on your desk, one that comes in many exquisite colors—then you want a Parker!

But, don't judge a pen by its appearance alone. Remember that you'll have to write a good many million words the rest of your life. More Parkers are sold than any other make because they write easily, smoothly, without pressure. That's important! You can write page after page without effort, uninterruptedly, as the ink flows from the gold point. Each Parker point, by the way, is tested 11 times!

Have your dealer show you, today, the Parker's non-breakable and leak-proof barrel. Look at the concealed button-filler, and the clip that makes it possible to keep the pen deep and secure in your pocket. . . . But buy a genuine Parker. At good stores everywhere.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

YESTERDAY'S MARKET EASY

According to Messrs. Swan Culbertson and Fritz, the New York market was easy yesterday. Business done 900,000 shares. The Wall Street Journal report on yesterday's market: The market declined mainly due to weakness of American Tel. & Tel. shares for which there is not a tangible reason as the Company's next report is expected to be highly favourable and no change on dividend is anticipated. Wall Street liked President Roosevelt's speech. Commodities were firm due to the Administration's relief plans for the winter. Our New York Office Cable (This morning)

Stocks: The failure of Saturday's rally to hold implies a further downward drift; would therefore follow a cautious policy. Wheat: The market needs now stimulating influences. Discouraged holders are encouraged to liquidate, and no definite sustained advance is likely until the situation changes. Cotton: With the farmers' ability to borrow in excess of the present futures price, near months offerings are expected to diminish and purchases are believed advisable. Domestic and Foreign demand increasing. The market is quiet and steady. Silver: The market closed easier on speculative profit-taking. Cable received at 12.20 a.m. during our Night Service.

"Political outlook appears toward sound money policy. The market apparently awaiting Roosevelt's Chicago speech at two o'clock."

BEGIN THE DAY RADIANTLY!

You Will, If You Take Sufficient Care of Your Blood and Nerves.

How much do so many people miss at this time of the year because, instead of rising vigorous and eager to enjoy the glorious early morning hours, they lie over-late, too languid and spiritless to leave their bed?

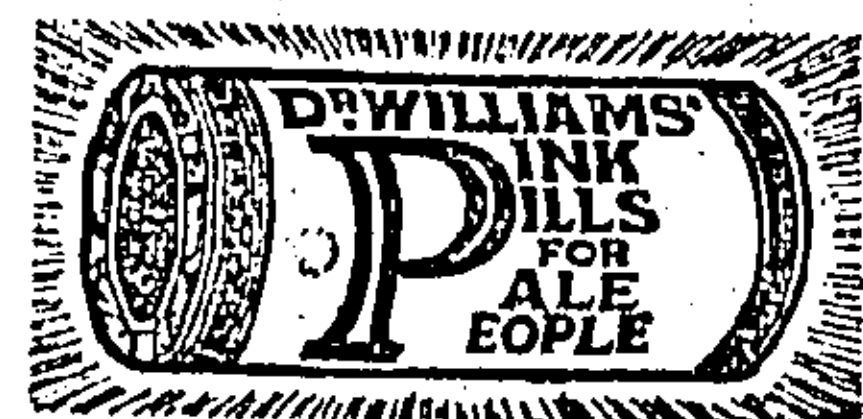

If this is your case, what is its reason? The answer almost surely is, the unsatisfactory condition of your blood. The prolonged spell of summer heat through which you have lately passed has impoverished your blood stream, thus reducing your digestive powers, debilitating your nerves and causing enfeeblement of your whole system.

To remedy matters, there is only way—by replacing in your blood that which it has lost, restoring to it richness and strength, so that it in turn may revitalize enfeebled organs, rebuild debilitated nerves, revive lost appetite and spirits.

This can only be done by means of a reliable blood and nerve tonic, of which there is none surpassing Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

For over half a century Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been renowned throughout the world for their remarkable restorative powers. By rapidly revitalizing the blood, and creating new, rich, red blood at every dose, these Pills build up the nerves, restore appetite, invigorate the whole system. They are equally good for men as well as women.

DEMONSTRATION IN THEATREABUSE HURLED AT HITLER

London, Sept. 29. An anti-German demonstration, lasting for several hours, took place last evening at the first night of Gerhart Hauptmann's drama "Before Sunset," in which one of the most outstanding German actors, Werner Krauss, played the leading part. The demonstrators were evidently well prepared and, shortly after the curtain had risen, a flood of handbills containing abusive statements against Werner Krauss and Chancellor Adolf Hitler was poured from the galleries on to the heads of the people in the stalls below.

The curtain had to be lowered whereupon a fight broke out between the disturbers of peace in the galleries and those who indignantly protested that they had paid to see the play. Meanwhile, the police were called in and they removed the demonstrators, after which the play continued.

HARROWING SCENES IN TAMPICOSURVIVORS FACING SHORTAGE OF FOOD AND WATER

Scenes of death and desolation met the pilots who flew over Tampico. One hundred and twenty-five bodies have been recovered, while thousands of survivors are being treated in the hospitals.

Survivors will have to face a shortage in food and drinking water. In order to avoid pestilence, everyone is being vaccinated. The military parade the streets all night long and no one is allowed in the streets after seven o'clock.

Congratulations are due to Rev. Fr. Spada to whom His Holiness the Pope has sent a gold medal and diploma as a token of gratitude for his work on the foreign missions especially for his labours connected with St. Teresa's Church, Kowloon.

H.K. UNIVERSITY UNIONCOMING OF AGE CELEBRATIONS

The Hongkong University Union will be celebrating its Coming-of-Age on Monday, 16th October, 1933.

Sir William and Lady Peel have kindly consented to be present at the ceremony and there will be a gathering of over 400 undergraduates and friends at the evening. About 600 couples are expected to take the floor at the Dance. The Vice-Chancellor has kindly granted a holiday to the students on Tuesday 17th.

Following is the list of events:—
4.30 p.m.—Union Coming-of-Age Ceremony. A special Union flag has been made for the occasion. Lady Peel has kindly consented to unfurl it. The Vice-Chancellor, Sir William Hornell, will deliver an address to the students and the President will reply.

6 p.m.—The Union souvenirs in the form of silver tie-pins will be presented to members.

6 p.m.—The Hon. Dr. R. H. Kotevall will open the Photographic Exhibition.

6.30 p.m.—A group photograph of the Patron, Hon. Vice Presidents, University Staff, Life Members, Past Presidents and Hon. Secretaries, and Members will be taken.

9 p.m. to 2 a.m. Dance in the University Great Hall.

The following is a list of Union Officials for 1933.

Patron:—H. E. Sir William Peel, Hon. Vice Presidents:—Sir William Hornell, Hon. Dr. R. H. Kotevall, Sir Shouson Chow, Mr. Kwok Siu Lau, Mr. Paul Lauder, and Mr. T. H. R. Shaw.

President:—Mr. Lam Kow Cheong.

Hon. Secretary:—Mr. Ong Ewe Hin.

Hon. Treasurer:—Mr. W. B. Finligan.

Council Members:—Miss Cissy Wong, Mr. H. W. Lee, Mr. K. P. Gan, Mr. S. Berwick, Mr. T. S. Lim, Mr. G. K. Lim, Mr. P. H. Chow, Mr. G. T. Soen, Mr. T. Y. Fung and Dr. N. K. Law.

EX-SEAMAN WITH UNLAWFUL ARMSCONFESSES HE BOUGHT THEM IN GERMANY

Tsai Nam, unemployed, charged before Mr. Schofield at the Central Magistracy, with possession of one automatic pistol and 98 rounds of ammunition without an appropriate licence was fined $500 or in default six months hard labour.

Sub-Inspector Fender said that accused was seen carrying a parcel by a district watchman about 9 p.m. on September 1.

On observing the watchman he threw the parcel into the nullah. Inquiries revealed that the man was an ex-seaman of a Blue Funnel boat, and he said he had brought the arms into the Colony at the beginning of August. He said he was taking it to the country to give it to his brother who was a watchman at Kowloon. He had missed his boat and was arrested when on his way back home. He bought the arms in Germany.

The Inspector said that this appeared to be a case of smuggling, and asked for a heavy penalty.

PICK POCKET IN SHANTUNG ST.SOLICITOR PLEADS IN MITIGATION

A plea for leniency was made by Mr. P. H. Sin at the Kowloon Magistrate's Court before Mr. Butters this morning when he represented Yung Hung, charged with picking the pocket of Chan Chee in Shantung Street.

It was stated that the complainant had about $18 in his wallet. Whilst walking in Shantung Street, he felt a tug at his pocket and when he turned round saw accused holding his wallet.

Accused was convicted and Mr. Sin, in pleading for leniency, asked his Worship to take into consideration defendant's good character. Sentence of 10 weeks was passed.

IRREGULAR STOCK MARKETSBUT BRITISH FUNDS REMAIN STEADY

London, Oct. 2. The stock markets closed with some irregularity, but British funds remained steady, with War Loan 3½ per cent. at 101½. Rubbers finished below best on profit taking, but lines were firm. German bonds were weak and Kaffirs quiet.—British Wireless.

LOCAL FISH FIRM FAILUREATTRIBUTED TO HIGH CANTON TAX

The raising by the Canton Government of the duty on fish to $2.64 per picul was stated to be the cause of the failure of the Luon Lung Fook Keen Salt Fish Firm, of 1 and 2, Mui Fong Street, Victoria, when a petition for the winding up of the company was granted by the Chief Justice, Mr. J. R. Wood, at the Supreme Court this morning.

Mr. H. G. Sheldon, instructed by Messrs. Wilkinson and Grist, represented the petitioner, Tong Pui-king, of Tsun Yuen Pawn Shop, Un Long, New Territories.

It was stated that the company was registered in May 1922, and was still trading though indebted to petitioner to the extent of $72,000.

SHERIFF'S FATE FEAREDBELIEVED MURDERED BY CONVICTS

Chesterton, Ind., Sept. 28. There is a growing apprehension that the sheriff, Mr. Charles Neel, has been put to death by the four escaped convicts, who shot their way to freedom and carried him off after wrecking his car.

Ten convicts altogether escaped from the Indiana State Prison on September 26 but they split into two gangs. A big force of police and citizens has been scouring the woods for them. They are reported to have been seen in several places but without their prisoner and the search is now concentrated on the sheriff rather than on the convicts.—Reuter.

LUANTUNG CHAOSBANDIT MENACE NEGOTIATIONS

Peking, Oct. 3. Negotiations for dealing with the bandit problem in Luantung are being renewed at Shanhai-kwan.

Colonel Shibayama, accompanied by a Chinese delegate arrived there yesterday morning.

It is said that the Japanese are refusing to recognise the Chinese special police corps on the ground that they are Chinese regular troops under another name.—Central News Agency.

AMERICAN NAVAL MANOEUVRESEFFORTS TO REDUCE FLEET'S STRIKING POWER

San Pedro, Oct. 2. Big American naval manoeuvres will take place this week under the command of Admiral David Sclars.

The conditions will be as strikingly close to those of actual warfare as possible. They will take the form of an overseas expedition by the fleet and efforts by an enemy to reduce the striking power of the fleet.

About 120 surface ships and 250 aircraft will take part.—Reuter.

which represents a reduction of ten per cent. is guaranteed to Finland.

HOW BRITAIN BENEFITS.

On the other side of the agreement Finland has conceded extensive reductions in customs duties to a long schedule of British products notably wool, jute, linen, tin plates, galvanised sheets, small automobiles, tyres, whiskey, gin, gramophones and records.

Among other goods accorded similar benefits are salted herring, the duty on which for the first year has been reduced from two marks to half mark per kilo for a fixed quantity. After the first year the duty will be raised to one mark per kilo and the quantity of Herrings taken increased.

Fixation of the existing duty has been agreed to regarding various goods, including certain colonial products such as bananas and tea and freedom of duty guaranteed in the case of coal and coke.

BIGGER COAL SUPPLY.

Regarding coal, Britain nine years ago provided 95 per cent. of coal for the Finnish market, but the figure dropped as low as 20 per cent. in 1931.

Finland now agrees to take not less than 75 per cent. of her coal from Britain, which should amount to increase of 775,000 tons on last year's figures and 700,000 over that of 1931.

Regarding coke, a British trade delegation is going to Finland shortly for a discussion agreement, similar to that negotiated in the recent treaty with Denmark, has also been included affecting inter alia, wheat, flour, crescents, jute and salt, and arrangements also have been started to increase the amount bought of British iron, steel, motor cars and commercial vehicles.—British Wireless.

NEW OIL-FIELD PREDICTEDVICTORIA'S HOPES AND PROSPECTS

A prophet has arisen in Australia. Mr. E. L. Walter, oil expert, predicts that a commercial oil field will be discovered in Victoria before the Centenary Celebrations in 1934.

Already 60,000 gallons of oil have been produced in this State. Further success depends on the introduction of improved modern methods, thorough geological surveys before the sites are selected and uniformity in the oil prospecting laws through the passing of legislation by Federal and State governments.

"Every year," stated Mr. Walter, "between $10,000,000 and $12,000,000 is spent on oil imports into Australia requiring the fleece of 50,000,000 sheep to meet the cost. Something must be done to keep this huge money in the country." In America the oil industry feeds more than 2,000,000 people.

JAPAN ASKS FOR FAIRER DEALAUSTRALIA'S SECOND BEST CUSTOMER

Australia has been given a gentle rap over the knuckles by Mr. M. Kawamura, a Japanese merchant in Melbourne for her poor reciprocation to his country's huge volume of exports.

Japan he pointed out is second only to Great Britain among Australia's customers but buys five times more than she sells. In fact, imports to Australia during 1929-1931 fell 43 per cent. His plea was for some sort of trade agreement and a more favourable consideration of Japanese manufactured goods. "Only in this way," said he, "could the standard of living in Japan be raised, and the demand increased for lower priced garments of Australian wool." "There is a huge potential market," he insisted "among Japan's poorer classes."

Meantime, says Austral News, Australia's own wool manufacturing industry leaps ahead. There are no fewer than 58 woolen mills in the country which, during 1931-32 bought 252,000 bales of wool. Production to date amounts to about 16 million square yards of woollens, worsteds and flannels, a million blankets and eight million pounds of yarns.

The industry was further stimulated by the knitting boom in Sydney this year. More than 143 tons of wool found its way into jumpers, scarves and so on.

LOST CHILDREN AS HEROESAUSTRALIAN BUSH STORIES

With nothing to show for it but pale faces and scratched and cut feet and legs, Stanley and Maurice Kelly, the two plucky five and seven year olds who were lost in the Victorian bush for three days and four nights, have been acclaimed national heroes and taken to Melbourne for a public viewing.

Their story has been capped by a series of others all equally remarkable. Two concerned cases in the nineties of very young children who survived after being lost as long as six days and nights. All of which, concludes Austral News, seems to point to the fact that youngsters can suffer privations younger than adults.

STEEL COULSON'S BILLIARD LEAGUECOMPETITION FOR 1933/1934

It has been decided to hold the above Competition this Winter, run on the same lines as in previous years.

Clubs, Messes, etc., desirous of participating are invited to send a representative to a Meeting to be held at St. Patrick's Club, Garden Road, Hongkong, at 8.00 p.m. on Monday next, 9th October, 1933.

The Committee will be elected, and any other business discussed at this Meeting.

SOVIET'S LITTLE TROUBLESPREMIER BUYS SOAP AND PROSECUTES

Daniel Sullimov, Premier of the All-Russian Soviet Republic (the principal member State of the Soviet Union) recently took his place in a long queue which had formed outside a shop where a sale of soap, under the alluring announcement "For all citizens" was in progress. After waiting a long time in the queue he discovered that the soap was of appalling quality, emitting a poisonous odour. The price of a measure of the soap was a rouble and ninety kopeks, and the clerk indifferently waved back Sullimov's proffered two roubles with the rejoinder "We have no change". Having surmounted this hurdle by telling the clerk to keep the change, Sullimov was given the soap in unwrapped form, and only succeeded in getting a small bit of paper by threatening to call the manager.

The Premier felt that the organisation responsible for placing such bad soap on sale should be held up to reprobation and started on a tour of personal investigation. When he finally located the organisation, after being sent from one incorrect address to another, he was told that the director was absent, that his assistant was ill, and that nothing could be done for him. At this point Sullimov announced his identity, whereupon there was a striking change of attitude; a frightened official was produced and assured the Premier that this organisation also was not responsible for the quality of the soap.

After cutting his way through several more layers of bureaucratic red-tape the Premier finally obtained the satisfaction of finding the presumptive actual culprits and having proceedings instituted against them on the basis of a Soviet law, considerably more honoured in the breach than in the observance, which makes it a criminal offence to turn out goods of outrageously bad quality.

The narrative of Sullimov's crusade for better soap was published, perhaps with a view to encouraging other Soviet citizens to protest more energetically in a long period of waiting in a queue is rewarded by some conspicuously bad product. However, the endurance of the ordinary buyer, lacking Sullimov's prestige, would probably give out long before he could find out who was really responsible for the poor product or even obtain a hearing for his grievances.

KEROSENE SHORTAGES.

While queues for manufactured goods have shown a tendency to abate in recent months, great crowds of people are always to be found where bread is being sold at "commercial prices" (which are very high) over and above the regular rationed allotments which holders of food cards are entitled to buy at moderate prices. And more recently there has been a breakdown in the supply of kerosene, which is an especially serious matter because most families in Moscow rely on the primus stove for such domestic cooking as they may undertake.

Queues have been forming shortly after midnight in front of kerosene shops on the uncertain prospect that some of the precious fluid will be on sale when the shops open at eight in the morning. In fact, a double gamble is involved in taking a place in a kerosene queue: first, on the shop postponing kerosene at all, and, secondly, on the supply lasting until one's turn in the queue has been reached. Among several causes for the sudden shortage of kerosene in the capital (for a long time it has been obtained with great difficulty, if at all, in neighbouring villages) perhaps the most immediate is the demand for motor fuel for the tractors and other motorised implements operating on the harvest fields.—Manchester Guardian.

WHEAT MAY HAVE RIVALDROUGHT-RESISTING GRASS IN QUEENSLAND

With the march of science wheat is likely to acquire a rival on the western plains of Queensland, Australia.

For there flourishes Mitchell grass—an outstanding among the 450 kinds of native grasses in this State—which needs only to have the kernel increased to be pronounced superior to wheat, which resembles in appearance.

Advantages are these, says Austral News. It is perennial and needs only to be sown once. Its deep roots—some are four feet long—make it less dependent on rain than an annual cereal, and its food value is undoubted. It has a reputation for breeding sheep, growing wool and imparting stamina to stock. Aborigines are reported to crush the grain between stones for food.

Experiments in selection, crossing and breeding are being carried out by Dr. E. Hirschfeld and his son of Western Queensland and it is hoped one day to develop the grain to the size of the wheat kernel.

WANG'S STATEMENTREVIEWS DECISIONS ON VITAL AFFAIRS

Nanking, Oct. 2. A general atmosphere of optimism prevails, following the arrival here this morning of Wang Ching-wei and Huang-fu, and Huang-fu's departure for Peking.

Wang Ching-wei proceeded to the Central Kuomintang Headquarters, where he addressed the weekly Memorial meeting.

Wang Ching-wei stated, firstly, that in accordance with the Central Executive Council meeting decision the Fifth National Kuomintang Congress will be postponed until next year and the National People's Assembly is scheduled to be held in March, 1936.

Secondly, concerning Mongolia's self autonomy, Wang Ching-wei declared that Dr. Sun Yat-sen always supported Mongolian autonomy. Viewing with doubt the real intentions of the recent Mongolian Princes' autonomy movement, the Government was establishing a Special Commission to study the question.

Thirdly, Fang Chen-wu's and Chi Hung-chang's military strength was negligible. Therefore, this problem was expected to be settled without much difficulty.

Fourthly, the Members of the Standing Committee of the National Economic Commission, Messrs. T. V. Soong, Sun-fu and Wang Ching-wei are formally assuming office this week.—Reuter.

PLANTERS' PROBLEM.MALAYA WAITING FOR DUTCH DECISION

Singapore, Oct. 2. The Malayan Rubber Administration is still determined not to initiate any proposals for the restriction of production, declared Sir Cecil Clementi, Governor of the Straits Settlements, in his speech to the Legislative Assembly to-day.

As the chief difficulties in the industry are to be found in the Dutch, East Indies, he said, any action on the part of Malayan planters would be premature.

When the Dutch and a practical solution, fair to both natives and estate owners, and guarantee to make it effective in Dutch territory, Malaya will then examine it with sympathy and every desire to co-operate, he went on; but French and Belgian adherence to the scheme was an absolute necessity and an essential condition, he said.—Reuter.

Effect on Market.London, Oct. 2.

There was a fresh demand for rubber shares this morning, based on the continued hopes for a restriction agreement, and the commodity price also showed the influence of optimistic trading, rising five thirty-seconds.

Later, profit-taking caused an easing of share prices and commodity prices weakened following Sir Cecil Clementi's statement as to the British policy in Malaya.—Reuter.

TRUNK MURDERTRIAL MAY BE DELAYED THREE MONTHS

Macao, Oct. 2. The trial of Patricio Romedon, charged with the murder of the girl Choy Ling whose body was found in a trunk shipped to Japan from Shanghai, may not come before the Supremo Court for another three months.

This opinion was expressed to-day by Mr. F. X. Silva, solicitor for the accused. Mr. Silva said that before the case could commence, the depositions of witnesses in the Portuguese Consular Court at Shanghai must be submitted to Macao.

It is now known that the charge of wilful murder against Patricio Romedon is based on particulars furnished from Shanghai.

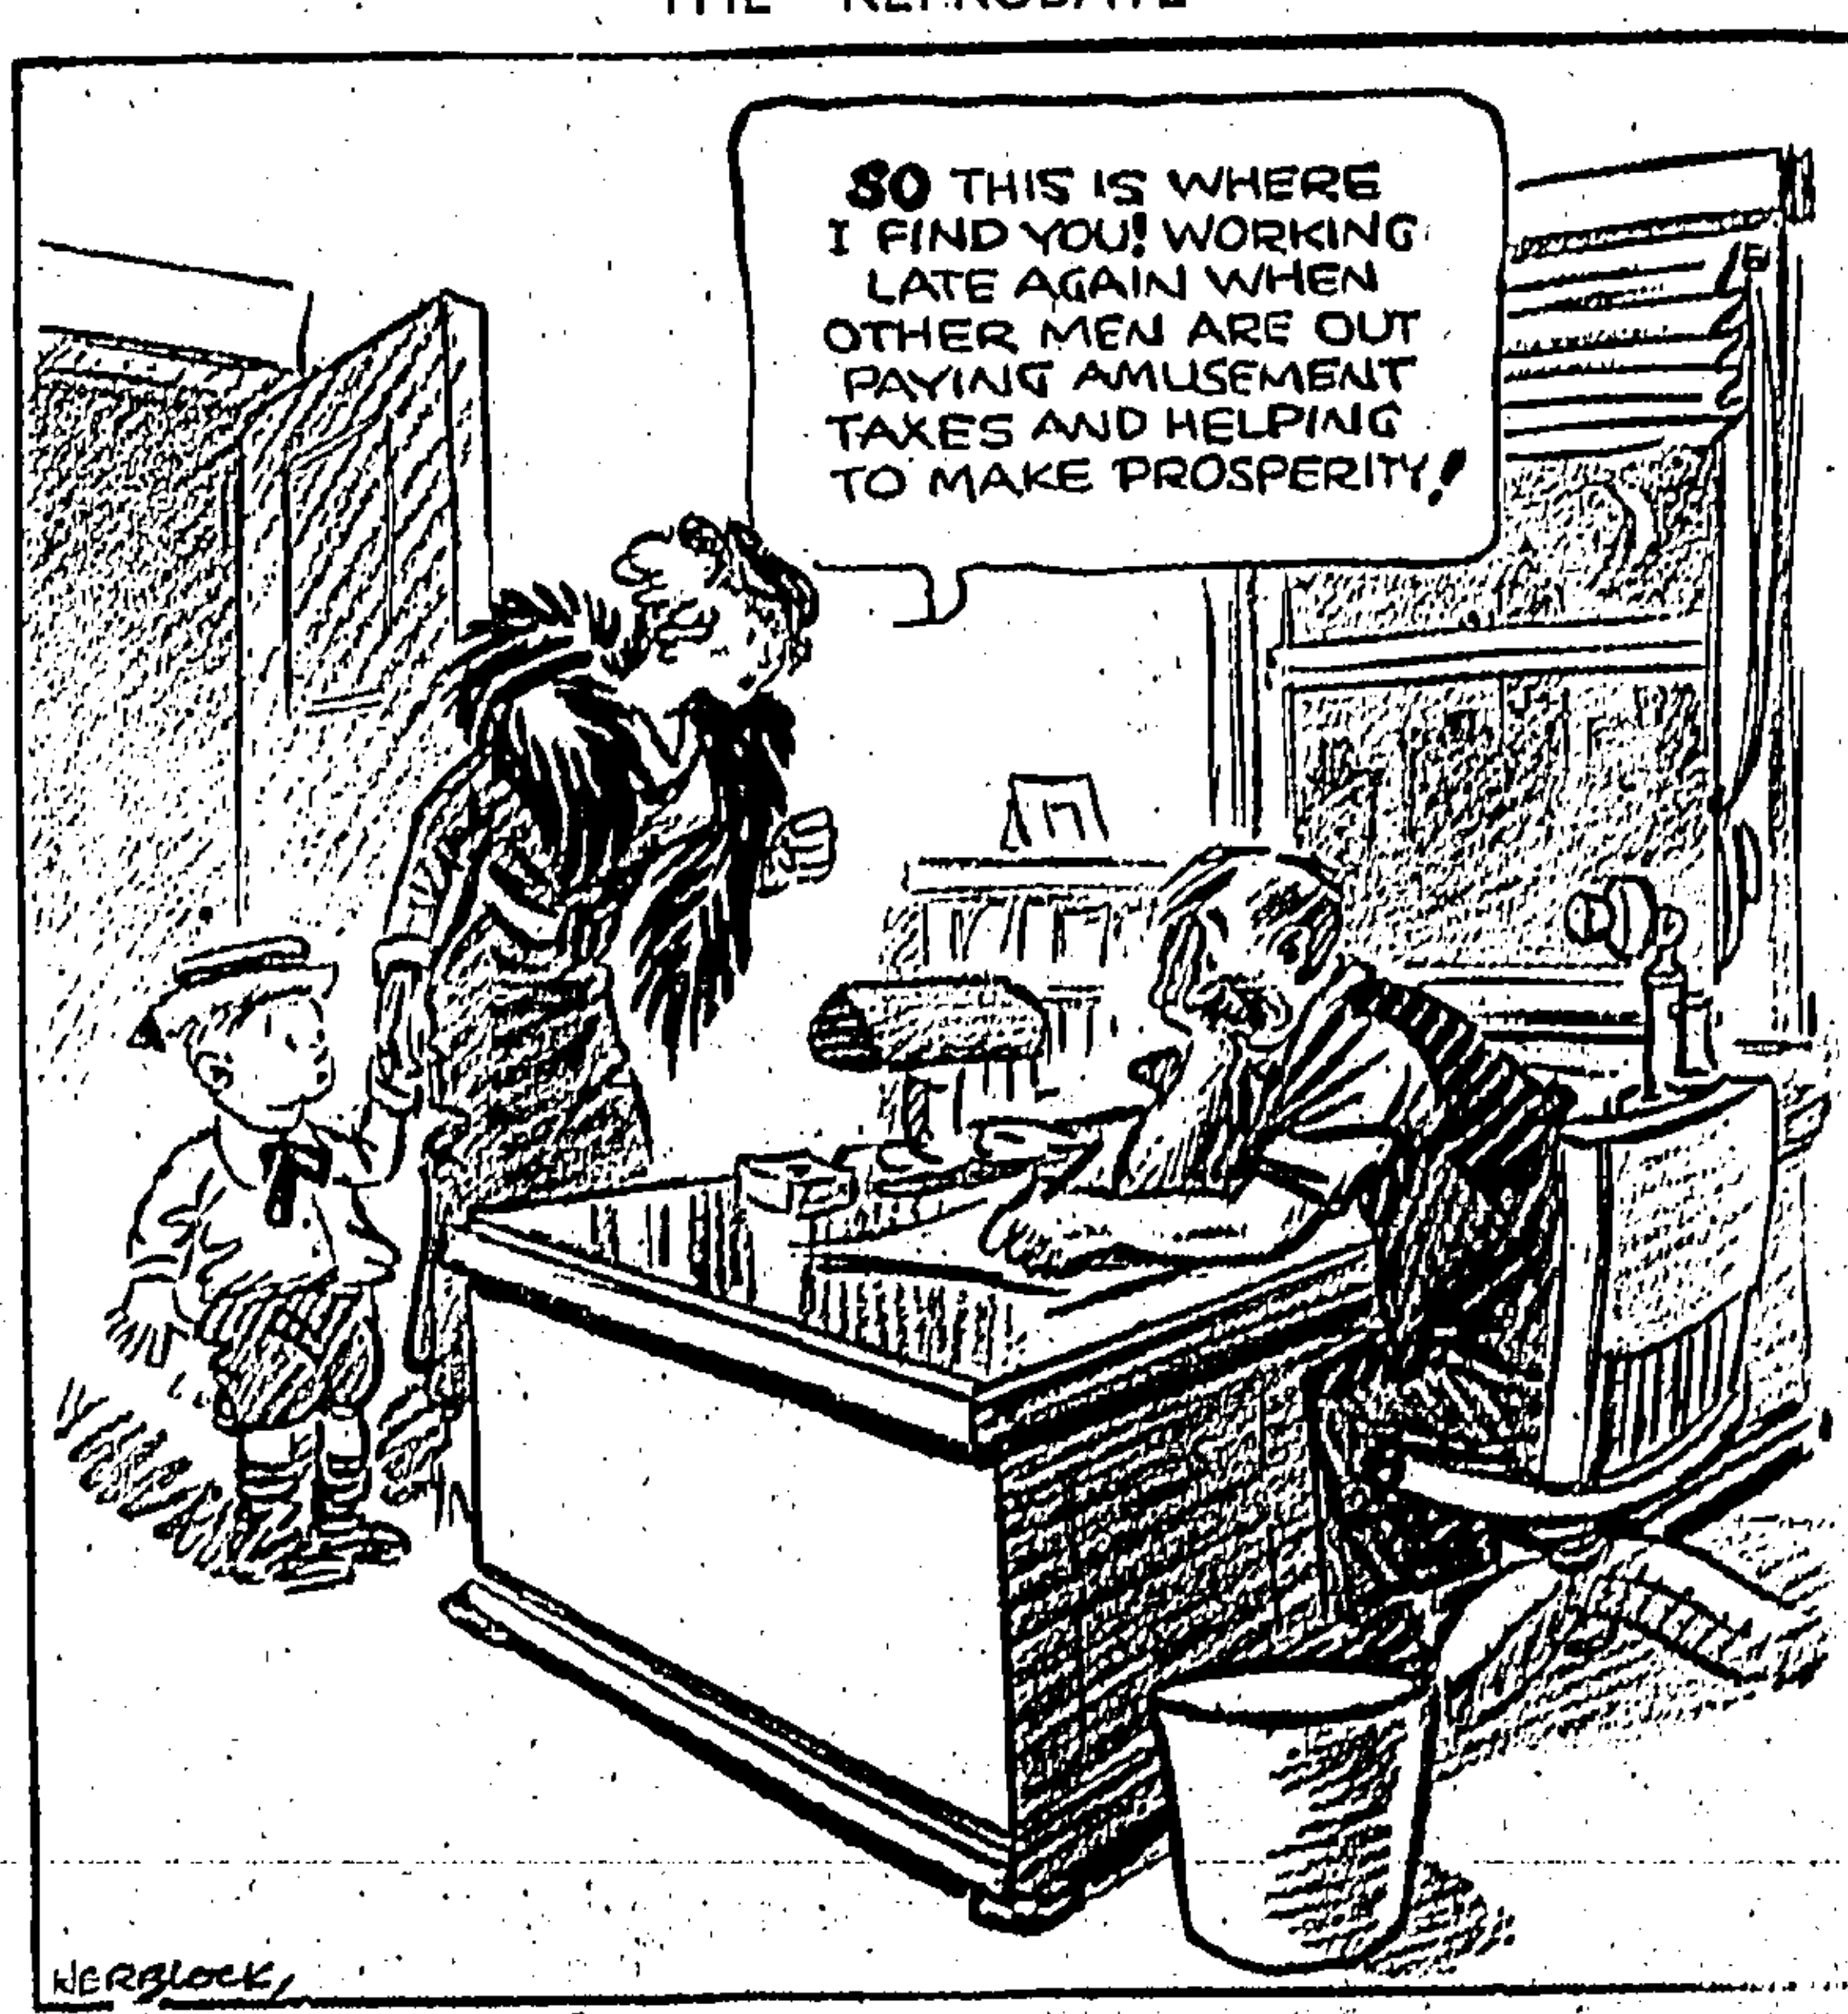

When shown a photograph of Choy Ling, accused in alleged to have cried and declared he was extremely sorry for the murder.

Jose Galina Romedon has been released, following Judge Raposa's refusal to charge him. When interviewed, he expressed his thanks to God for his freedom.

He deeply appreciated the unqualified courtesy and kindness the people of Macao, and especially his lawyer, had shown to him when he was ill. His only hope now is that his brother will be freed, or, at least, that his sentence will be a light one.—Our Own Correspondent.

CHARGES WITHDRAWN. CARTEL CONTINUES.

ALLEGED THEFTS SUBJECT FOR CIVIL ACTION

Charges concerning the alleged theft of $1,807.80 between January, and April, 1930, and $250, on January 8, 1932, brought against Pang Yuen, a former partner of the Wah Cheong Poultry stall, Central Market, were withdrawn before Mr. Balfour at the Central Police Court yesterday afternoon.

For the prosecution, Mr. P. X. D'Almada sen. said: I find in this case the subject of the charges is more for civil action than for criminal proceedings. With your Worship's permission I wish to withdraw on both charges.

Mr. Hin-shing Lo (for the defence) said: I fully agree with my

MOVE FOR DISSOLUTION CIRCUMVENTED

Brussels, Oct. 2.

The Zinc Cartel, a move for the dissolution of which was started recently, has decided to renew its agreement, with modifications regarding the method of fines to be levied for excess production above the quotas of each member nation.

The modifications appear to have satisfied Belgium, where the move for dissolution originated.—Reuter.

friend. As a matter of fact I said so at the very beginning it was more a matter for civil action.

The charges were accordingly withdrawn.

PICK-POCKETING THEATRE-GOERS

AFTERNOON ESCAPE OF EX-PANISH

An unemployed young Chinese, who the Police suspect of being the pickpocket of people who attend the afternoon shows at the Central Theatre and Kings Theatre, appeared before Mr. Balfour in the Central Police Court this morning, charged with loitering in Queen's Road Central.

Inspector Wong Tuck, denied the charges, stating that since he had returned to Hongkong after banishment he has never attended against the law.

A district watchman said he saw the defendant paying attention to the pockets of pedestrians outside the Kings Theatre at 2.20 yesterday afternoon.

Accused walked to the entrance of Pattinger Street and back again about four or five times and occasionally "picked" pockets. He observed defendant in the act of making an attraction from the pocket of a man who was carrying an umbrella and some photographs. On seeing this, defendant bolted down toward Victoria Street, then Victor Road, Central, Pattinger Street, and was finally arrested on the Plaza.

Det. Insp. Kinton produced three previous convictions against the defendant, including two for theft. Defendant was bailed for ten years in April, 1933.

Sentence of two months' hard labour was passed.

INDIAN A.S.P. RETIRING

MR. MOHINDER SINGH

After thirty-five years in the Colony, Sardar Mohinder Singh, Assistant Superintendent of the Hongkong Police Force, is retiring for his homeland on October 14 on a well-earned furlough.

He first joined the Force as a constable and thereafter rose by successive stages to the rank of Inspector. His elevation to command rank as an Assistant Superintendent of Police in charge of the Sikh Contingent came about at the end of 1922, as a result of the growing number of the Force, but more particularly in recognition of personal efficiency.

A President of the Khalsa Diwan, the chief Sikh religious and social organization in Hongkong, he had been the means of regulating many difficult matters, in respect of which his experience and tact was found invaluable.

A tribute in glowing terms was paid to Mr. Mohinder Singh, when at a gathering to congratulate him on his important appointment, a compatriot, Mr. Balwan Singh said: "To the Diwan your services have been so valuable that your name will always be remembered with great respect and gratitude."

The marriage is announced to take place shortly of Mr. John Turnbull Cook, of 414, Prince Edward Road, and Miss Margaret Daphne Warren, Italian Consul, 30, Colne Road.

AMERICANS WED IN COLONY

MIC. FRIEDMAN AND MISS STEARNS

Entirely out from Manila and San Francisco respectively, Mr. & Mrs. Friedman and Miss Stearns were married for their marriage in Hongkong this morning.

The parties are both American. Mr. Friedman being assistant manager of the Antamok Gold Field Mining Company, stationed at Baguio, and his bride, having been from San Francisco. The bridegroom arrived by the s.s. President Cleveland to meet Miss Stearns who came by the s.s. President Coolidge last night.

A reception at the Hongkong Hotel followed the ceremony, the guests including Mrs. Samuel Hill, Miss Agnes White, Miss Ethel Under, all of Honolulu, Mr. J. Murphy, Manila, Mr. B. Goodier, Denver, Col., Mr. H. White, New York, and Mr. K. Harris, Oakland, Cal.

Mr. and Mrs. Friedman leave by the President Coolidge for Manila this evening for the honeymoon.

Chan Hung, remanded from yesterday by Mr. Bechofield to find $17.50 which he had stolen from a box at 207, Jaffer Road, appeared in Court again this morning. Sub-Inspector Hobbah said that the defendant had failed to raise the money. Mr. Bechofield ordered defendant to pay the money or go to prison for three weeks and to serve another four weeks hard labour in addition.
